CLUB HOST AT DANCE AND BANQUET

Exchange Members Meet in Social Session; Program Is Complete Success

The Glendale Exchange club has host last night to the Los Angeles Exchange and Exchangeettes, at a banquet in the ballroom of the new Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, at which covers were laid for over 200.

President D. Ripley Jackson of the local chapter who acted as toastmaster, sounded the proper note of merriment and sociability at the very outset and thereafter maintained the festivities at that level.

The position of toastmaster for the Los Angeles chapter, responded in the same genial strain, gracefully agreeing that the Los Angeles branch of the Glendale Exchange club "wasn't exactly asleep, concluding his remarks with a few serious words of "Unity for Service," the club's motto.

Extends Invitation Before he took his seat, Mr. Mosher extended to the Glendale chapter an invitation to be present with their Exchangeettes at a forthcoming "Ladies Night" at the Los Angeles headquarters, the date of which had not as yet been set.

Between the courses of the very meal prepared and served by the non-section members of the Tuesday Afternoon club, dancing was enjoyed at the west end of the ballroom, music of a superior quality being furnished by Kelly's Shrine Club orchestra.

Kelly, violin; Earl Floyd, saxophone; Mike Kaufman, piano; Crampton, clarinet; and Donaldson, drums. Two charming vocal selections were then given by Mrs. Bernice after an unusually talented pupil, Wilbur Herwig, Mrs. Pearl G. Burran furnishing the piano accompaniment. The first selection was "Love's Sorrow," by Shelby; the second, "I Love You," by Cadman.

In rendering these selections, the center revealed a rich and promising voice.

Mrs. George Lindsay then gave a pleasing piano number, "Impressions at a Circus," according to toastmaster Jackson. The composer was Rachmaninoff. This number was followed by a vocal number from Wilbur Herwig, "Lassie of Mine," by Walt. Mr. Herwig is one of the best prominent and capable singers of southern California. It is who sings the roles of the tenor and one of the padres, in the session Play at San Gabriel, of which Fredrick Warde is the leading star.

RESIDENT PLANS PORTO RICO TRIP

May Extend Alaska Journey To Include Visit to Island Territory

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Harding's forthcoming trip across the continent and to Alaska, starting next month, may be extended to include Porto Rico, it is learned this afternoon.

Mr. Harding has under consideration a water trip from Alaska, Seattle, through the Panama canal, to Porto Rico, which would require a month's time. No definite decision has yet been made, but Secretary of the Navy informed the president this morning that if he decided to go, a navy could place at his disposal the new light cruiser Detroit, recently commissioned, and one of the most modern of the navy's light craft.

Would Curtail Speeches Mr. Harding is loath to stay away from the White House for a length of time necessary to make the trip, it was said. He would be desirous of visiting Porto Rico to see for himself the conditions there that have led to the unpleasantness for the American administration.

Should the president ultimately decide to make the Porto Rican trip, it will cut down materially the number of speeches and planned to deliver in his and the continent journey. Also, it was said by his advisers, eliminating some of the speeches would help ease the impression that the president is on a campaign tour. Mr. Harding is extremely anxious to eradicate the public mind any impression that he is going on a stump tour as a candidate for reelection.

Daring Aviator Arrives At Home In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Greeted by hundreds of Los Angeles friends, Lieutenant John A. Macready, one of the two daring aviators who yesterday created the greatest sensation in the history of aviation by making a non-stop flight across the continent in twenty-six hours and fifty minutes, arrived in this city today and immediately went to his home in South Carondelet street.

Lieutenant Macready was especially enthusiastic regarding the statement in Washington of Brigadier General Mitchell, assistant chief of the air service, that the army fliers will fly tomorrow to cut the time of yesterday's flight in half and then attempt to fly around the world.

FEAT OF T-2 WILL SPUR AVIATORS

Revival of Flyers' Interest In Trans-Ocean Flight Is Predicted

(Henry Woodhouse, president of the Aerial League of America, who arranged the flight of the dirigible R-34 to America, believes the achievement of Lieutenants Macready and Kelly in the T-2 will revive interest in non-stop flights of great hazard and that transatlantic flying will be under way again soon. His views are expressed in the following exclusive article.)

By HENRY WOODHOUSE
Written Especially for International News Service

NEW YORK, May 4.—The achievement of Lieutenants Macready and Kelly in the T-2 was needed to revive interest in non-stop flying. Their wonderful feat will quicken the spirit of daring that is needed for transatlantic flights.

The distance they covered, 2600 miles, is far more than enough needed to span the Atlantic. The route of Alecock and Brown, from Newfoundland to Ireland, was only 1860 miles.

From Newfoundland to the Azores is 1375 miles, and the remaining lap to Portugal adds 1093 miles—a total of 2468 miles.

Trade Winds Help South America to Barbados to the Canaries is another route that may be successfully negotiated.

Since Alecock and Brown made their historic flight, air navigation has been aided by the radio direction compass and great improvement in aircraft construction.

Up to the time of this flight the double motor plane held the record for long-distance flying. Now the contest between the single and double motor planes will be renewed with the result of greater accomplishments in the conquest of the air.

Urge Elimination of Dangerous Corners

Charles B. Guthrie, realtor, of 1641 Grand View avenue, last night urged the City Council to take immediate action to see that the corners of all dangerous street intersections are rounded at once before a life is lost in an accident. He said that he knew of one corner where two accidents had occurred and another where three accidents had occurred already because motorists coming from one direction are unable to see passing machines until too late. He added that he knows forty intersections that need attention and he offered to spend his time showing them to members of the city administration.

The importance of Mr. Guthrie's suggestion was emphasized by Councilman W. A. Horn. He said that he was aware of several very dangerous intersections.

Councilman Sam Day made a motion, which was carried, that City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy should give the matter their immediate attention.

About 1:30 a. m. the occupants of the car were arrested in Burbank. They were Walter Shepeck of 133 South Maryland avenue and Ernest Forbely of Los Angeles. They were charged with intoxication and resisting an officer.

FLYERS WILL SEEK NEW RECORDS

Macready and Kelly Will Try For 48-Hour Flight at Dayton Field

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, May 4.—The official time in which Lieutenants Macready and Kelly made their epochal coast to coast flight was 26 hours, 50 minutes and 38.25 seconds, it was announced today by the National Aeronautic association. A representative of the association was the official timekeeper. The average speed of the T-2 for the entire flight was 93 1/2 miles an hour.

By WILLIAM PARKER
For International News Service
SAN DIEGO, May 4.—While the laurels of victory are still green, the United States army aviators, Lieutenants Oakley Kelly and John A. Macready will seek still another world record. This time, it was revealed today, their goal will be a sustained flight of forty-eight hours and it will be attempted shortly at Dayton, Ohio.

Telegrams and even cablegrams from France, Italy and Sweden continued to pour in on the aviators today, congratulating them on their world's record flight when yesterday they landed at Rockwell Field, California after a twenty-six hour non-stop flight from Hempstead, N. Y. The official time made by the giant T-2 monoplane was twenty-six hours, fifty minutes and thirty seconds, the distance approximately 2600 miles.

The day of triumph for the two aviators was to have culminated last night at a dinner at which several hundred American Legion men and prominent citizens of San Diego and United States army and navy officers were gathered. The guests were present. Lieutenant Kelly showed up half an hour late, as embarrassed as a school boy with his first long pants. Lieutenant Macready did not show up at all and it was whispered about the tables that shyness got the better of him shortly before the banquet and that he had started for Los Angeles in an automobile. So Kelly became the hero of the evening all by himself.

There were no women present at the banquet, but when the flyers lunched with Major H. H. Arnold a few minutes after completing their trans-continental flight, Miss Mary Watson was present. She admitted today that she and Lieutenant Kelly had been sweethearts for ten years, but she would not admit how long she had been wearing the platinum ring set with a diamond, which, friends say, she only recently appeared with.

New York Coffee At the banquet a few favored guests had their coffee from a vacuum container. It had been filled the previous day at a Bowery lunch in New York. A New York newspaper printed the day previously also was passed about the table.

An official report on the condition of the flyers was handed to Major Arnold. Signed by Dr. L. M. Fields, it set forth the flyers had suffered none physically from their journey.

Strikers and Shippers Deadlocked at Harbor

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—With ship owners determined they will load their ships after today, if they have to import strikebreakers for the work, and a like determination on the part of the strikers that they will not work under present conditions, the situation in the lumber and longshoremen's strike along the waterfront appeared deadlocked today, and there was uncertainty as to when peace would reign again.

After twenty of their number had been arrested for blockading streets during a strikers' meeting late yesterday in San Pedro, 4,000 asserted strikers gathered on a nearby hill top last night and listened to communist speakers until a late hour. The place where the night session was held, a short distance from where the street meeting was attempted in the afternoon, was donated for use to the strikers by a sympathetic San Pedro woman, the police learned.

$18,000 Building for So. Brand Boulevard

Construction has commenced by Contractor B. W. Sherwood of 213 South Brand boulevard upon an $18,000 building at 1360 South Brand boulevard for C. A. Bunting of 1325 North Brand boulevard, who believes in boosting Glendale from one end of Brand boulevard to the other.

The new building will be located upon the southeast corner of Cypress street and Brand boulevard. The principal construction material will be brick, and both front and side will be of rough brick. The lower floor will be divided into two stores on Brand boulevard and one on Cypress street. These will be about 14x20 feet in size. The upper floor will contain six single apartments. The building will be 50x62 feet in size. It is scheduled for completion in ninety days.

Women's Strike Forces Break in Sugar Price

NEW YORK, May 4.—Twenty-five thousand women and children were to parade to the city hall here this afternoon, and demand lower sugar prices.

The "buy less" and "eat less" activities of the New York City housewives' sugar committee have broken sugar prices about 1 cent, but the women say that isn't enough.

Sugar prices took another drop today. Cuban raw sugar fell to 7 1/2 c a pound. The Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company announced a reduction of 75 points to 9.60c a pound, and the National Sugar Refining company posted a reduction of 25 points to 9.60c a pound.

PUPILS GIVE EDUCATORS DINNER

Cooking Classes at Glendale Avenue School Hosts to Board Members

A twelve pound turkey was the guest of honor last night at the banquet served in the south end of the main corridor of the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school by members of the A 8th cooking classes of both intermediate schools to members, relatives and guests of the Board of Education. The menu consisted of seven courses, beginning with a fruit cocktail and concluding with cake and mints. In between came the consommé, croquettes with tartare sauce, roast turkey with mashed potatoes and gravy, cranberry sauce, green peas, combination salad, lemon ice, cheese wafers and hot biscuits.

Miss Lulu M. Woodbridge, supervisor of home economics for the grammar school system, was the hostess of the occasion. The preparation of the meal was under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Rogers Baker, cooking teacher. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hibben, Mrs. Eva C. Barton, Dr. and Mrs. P. O. Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Learned, Mr. and Mrs. David Black, Richardson D. White, Miss Carrie Noble, Norman R. Whytock and Miss Murray Longley.

Business Meeting Service was provided by a group of girls from both intermediate schools including Virginia Glass, Mary Campbell, Beatrice Case, Betty McGhee, Lois Lord, Edith Thompson, Eleanor Deckard, Margaret Andrews, and Miriam Bainbridge.

Following the banquet, the board of education held a business meeting at which plans for several additions to school buildings were discussed. Architect George M. Lindsey of 345 Harvard drive, Architect Alfred F. Priest of 1422 North Central avenue, and Architect Arthur G. Lindley of 123 South Belmont street, were all present.

The Pacific Avenue Parent-Teachers' Association was represented at the meeting by its president, Mrs. R. H. Rosenberg, of 462 Riverdale drive and Mrs. L. E. Hill of 333 Riverdale drive who requested that building plans be amended to include a cafeteria and an assembly room at the Pacific Avenue Intermediate school. They suggested that a solution of the problem might be to roof over the court.

Members of the board explained that no extra money was provided in the recent bond issue for $500,000, but that if it were possible to re-arrange the bungalows so as to provide a cafeteria this would be done.

Playground Directors As playground directors for the summer months the board appointed H. E. Bremer of Los Angeles, teacher at the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school, and Walter F. Hanson of Pasadena, teacher at the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school.

By request the date of the graduation exercises for the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school were postponed from Thursday until Friday night, June 22.

OPEN TRIAL OF KRUPP'S DIRECTORS

French Troops Guard Court As German Magnates Face Charges

By S. D. WEYER
For International News Service
WERDEN, Occupied Germany, May 4.—Amidst a war-like setting, emphasized by tanks, machine guns, military torries and soldiers with bayoneted rifles, the trial of Herr Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach and three directors of the Krupp works at Essen began today before a French court-martial. They are charged with instigating disloyalty and arousing German hostility against the French.

Herr Krupp von Bohlen is head of the Krupp works and the husband of Bertha Krupp, whose father founded the industry. The directors are Herr Bruhn, Herr Hartwig and Herr Osterlehn.

The specific accusation is violation of decree 22, issued by General De Goutte, commander-in-chief of the French army of occupation, which forbids "complicity and other machinations in secret agreement" against order and the safety of the occupational forces. The French claim there was a prearranged signal by which all the sirens and whistles were to be turned loose at a Krupp plant when any French soldiers appeared there.

When the French occupied the motor truck garage at the Krupp works March 31, the whistles and sirens were turned on full blast, making a deafening noise that could be heard for miles.

Lawyer Over-ruled Dr. Gimm, German lawyer, who has defended all the German officials and industrialists so far brought to trial, appeared for the defendants. He moved that the military tribunal is not competent to try the Krupp officials, but was over-ruled.

There were many German spectators in the room. They broke into cheers as the defendants, led by Herr Krupp von Bohlen, entered.

A crack regiment of French troops was on duty around the building to curb demonstrations.

Breaks Safety Gates, Placed Under Arrest

Herbert L. Collins of 817 East Wilson avenue was arrested at 1:15 a. m. by Officer I. F. LaRoe after the automobile he was driving back to Glendale from Los Angeles had crashed into the Southern Pacific crossing gates. J. Reed of 1559 East Fifty-third street, Los Angeles, was the flagman on duty. He was knocked down by the collision, but was not injured. He was taken to the office of Dr. D. A. Baker of 108 West Wilson avenue, who dressed a cut finger.

Governor Signs Bill Aiding Sewer Project

Announcement that Governor Friend Richardson has signed the bill permitting one municipality to run a sewer line through the limits of another municipality, that the Glendale's charter amendments have passed the senate without objection and that amendments to the street improvement act of 1911 are now in the senate committee is contained in a letter received this morning by City Manager W. H. Reeves from Frank C. Weller of 310 East Wilson avenue, assemblyman from this district.

"We are working night and day now," asserted Attorney Weller, "and hope to get away from here by the middle of May."

Rejection of the German reparations offer of 30,000,000,000 gold marks is a flat rejection and does not contain any counter proposals for a basis of future negotiations, it was learned today from an authoritative source. According to newspapers with inside sources of information, the French communication rejects the German proposals point by point.

Lord Crewe, the British ambassador, called upon Premier Poincare and told him that, while England approves of France's rejection, the British must insist that France engage in general conversations on the reparations issue.

The British believe Germany may be led to make a better offer later if France and Belgium will consent to negotiations now.

French foreign office officials were engaged today in putting the final touches upon the French reply. The contents already have been communicated to Belgium. It is likely copies will be transmitted to the other allies tonight and be forwarded to Berlin tomorrow.

On Three Points "French rejection of the German offer is based upon three main points," said "Pertinax," political editor of the Echo de Paris. "France and Belgium already have agreed upon these points. They are: First, there must be no radical modification of the reparations payments agreed upon May 5, 1921; second, occupation of the Ruhr by French and Belgian troops shall continue until all the indemnity is paid; third, Germans must cease their passive resistance in the Ruhr."

Philippe Millet, one of the best known political writers in France, said the French and Belgians would agree to cancellation of 80,000,000,000 gold marks of Class C reparations bonds out of a total of 132,000,000,000 gold marks worth of this series of bonds agreed upon May 5, 1921, only on condition inter-alia that debts are cancelled. The general opinion here is that there will be no negotiations unless Germany makes another offer meeting French and Belgian conditions.

Real Opportunity Mrs. Ballagh feels that in having Edouard Vysekai here on Sunday afternoon, a real opportunity is offered the people of Glendale to increase their knowledge and appreciation of art.

Announcement is again made that all children wishing to enter specimens of their work in the forthcoming juvenile exhibit must have these specimens in the juvenile room of the Public Library by May 15, with name, age and school grade attached.

The exhibits of works by John W. Cotton and William L. Cheever, now showing in the windows of the Glendale Book Store and the Glendale Paint and Paper Company, on South Brand boulevard, are for sale, Mrs. Ballagh states.

Company Sees Continued Prosperity in Glendale; Plans for Future

Realizing the remarkable growth of Glendale, and visioning the city's further increase in population, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company plans to spend large sums in betterment of the service here and in the immediate vicinity.

Fred Deal, manager of the company here, today declared: "The telephone company is making additions to its power plant in the central office this year, at a cost of approximately $15,000. This project also includes a rearrangement of certain of its operating equipment."

"During the year, the company will install additional switchboard equipment involving an expenditure of approximately $35,000. The apparatus installed will provide a margin to take care of the increasing demands for telephone service in this rapidly growing city."

Outside Improvements "Additions will be made to the company's outside plant along Verdugo Canyon Road into the La Canada section. About 14,600 feet of cable will be placed on this project at a cost of about $19,000. It is expected that the work will be completed by August, 1923."

"A project to be completed this year, costing about $60,000 includes the placing of approximately 8,987,000 conductor feet of cable along San Fernando road, toward Burbank. The completion of this work will provide additional facilities to take care of the growth in this section."

"Cable will be placed in the extreme northwest section of the city, involving an expenditure of approximately $15,000. About 4,100,000 conductor feet of cable is involved in this work."

"The company also plans to place approximately 10,000,000 conductor feet of cable in various sections of the city during the year at a cost of about $30,000."

Glendale women are interested in the reports coming from the California Federation of Women's clubs' convention at Eureka, where Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president, and Mrs. R. W. Meeker, of the Tuesday Afternoon club are in attendance.

At the election yesterday of Mrs. John C. Urquhart of Los Angeles, to the presidency, there was much rejoicing among the 400 club women present, the southern California delegates being particularly demonstrative with Mrs. Daniel Campbell of Glendale, leading the impromptu songs.

The big resolution feature of yesterday was the endorsement of the government's action in the sugar shortage and favoring limitation of the use of sweets as a means of bringing down soaring prices.

Today the club women visited the redwoods.

"DO YOU CURE INCURABLE DISEASES? CERTAINLY NOT."
But many of the so-called incurable diseases yield to Osteopathic treatment. Some patients wait till they have lost recuperative power; there is no sound tissue left to build on; such cases we do not want, and frankly tell them so.
People often remark how wonderful it is that the Osteopath cures such a large percentage of cases that come to him for treatment. It seems a great deal more wonderful when we consider that nearly all of those are chronic cases that have been treated unsuccessfully by various other doctors and specialists before consenting to try Osteopathy. Think what the percentage would be if the Osteopath could get hold of those cases in the acute stage before the disease became so deep-seated and chronic and before the body had lost so much of its recuperative power.
Of course we do not cure incurable diseases, but many of the so-called incurable diseases yield to Osteopathy. Many cases, now in an incurable stage, could have been cured if taken in time.

Legislature Plans to Finally Quit May 18
SACRAMENTO, May 4.—May 18 was fixed as the date of adjournment for the present session of legislature in the senate. The date must now be concurred in by the assembly. Adjournment on May 18, 101 days from the convening of the legislature, will make the present session the longest since 1862, when the two houses transacted business for 104 days.

Final disposition of the budget passed the way for the setting of the adjournment date. The budget measure is now in the hands of Governor Richardson, the senate having passed it early Thursday evening and the assembly concurred in senate amendments late Thursday night.

Governor Richardson is expected to trim from the measure most of the additions. It is not expected that the necessary two-thirds vote can be obtained in the legislature to override any of his vetoes.

Willing to Be Dead For Five Hours Only
LOS ANGELES, May 4.—He wanted to die for five hours, then be revived, and tell of his experiences in eternity during those five hours.

That was the remarkable proposition made by L. G. Weekbaugh to local medical men, which met with opposition from them, as well as the city and county authorities.

Weekbaugh, in his unusual offer, proposed to go before a board of surgeons and submit to an operation for the stopping of his heart action. At the end of five hours, adrenin, the newly discovered "life fluid," was to be injected in an effort to restore his life. Weekbaugh was then to tell of the experience of "dying."

"The act of stopping a man's heart would be to kill him, and that of itself would constitute manslaughter," said Chief Deputy District Attorney Asa Keyes in forbidding Weekbaugh's experiment.

Mystery Warning Note Subject of Inquiry
LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Attempts to learn the source of a threatening note addressed to the cashier of the Commonwealth Trust Company, Lane mortgage building, and received by R. A. Mackenzie, who recently assumed that office, were expected to be made by the United States district attorney's office upon receipt of the note.

"Leave town within twelve hours of the receipt of this or take the consequences—K. K. K." was the wording of the note, which Mackenzie took to police headquarters with the request that an investigation be made. Mackenzie believed that the note might have been addressed to his predecessor.

Kidnaped Lad and Parents Hold Reunion
WATERTOWN, N. Y., May 4.—"Hello, Mommy!" "Hello, Verner!" This commonplace exchange of greetings, reminiscent of O. Henry and his commentary on what folks say in times of stress, marked the reunion today of Verner Alexander, kidnaped son of the noted Schenectady radio engineer, and his mother, who rushed to this city by private car to claim the child who had been stolen from her three days ago.

The reunion, made doubly strange by the self-assurance of the stolen child, took place at the Jefferson county jail, where the boy, rescued from a Riverside cold at Theresa, had been held captive and spent the night.

Our ordinary notions of distance and direction are really based upon the assumption that the earth is flat.

Trap in Windows to Solve Signal Problem
DUBUQUE, Iowa, May 5.—E. Erner, a Dubuque inventor, claims to have solved the signal problem for closed automobiles. He has invented a trap in the glass window beside the steering wheel through which the hand can be thrust.

Mr. Erner started working on his invention last October, after the American Automobile Association had announced that automatic devices were inadequate and recommended the use of hand signals. The mechanical construction of the self-opening window is simple and will permit hand signals to be used on every closed car in country.

HELPLESS FAMILY IS BANISHED Woman And Children Driven Off Reservation

Mrs. Joseph Boyer and her four children, the eldest 11 and the youngest less than a year old, have been ejected from the Caghnawaga Indian reservation in Canada because the mother had married a white man 25 years ago. The woman, an Indian herself, speaks neither English nor French and has been left penniless in Montreal. The ruling from Ottawa has stirred fear and indignation and is thought to be the first of many cases in which the government intends to remove Indians who have married whites.

OHIO PASTOR REFUSES Fees for Marriages

LIMA, Ohio, May 4.—Prospective brides and bridegrooms, attention!
In sporting parlance you may "play to a free game" at the First Baptist church here, where Rev. Warren I. Steeves is pastor.

"No young couple is ever charged a penny for having the wedding bonds tied in my church," said Dr. Steeves. "Two cannot live as cheaply as one, and every cent counts when the young voyagers set out on the great adventure."

When the perspiring bridegroom is "tipped" by the blushing bride "hand over" the offering, Rev. Dr. Steeves accepts. Then he presses the money into the bride's hand and tells her to buy a Bible, a cook book or anything she wants and needs.

"It's a popular idea," said Rev. Dr. Steeves. "They fear they will have to pay for appearance sake. There are too many young folks into justices' courts to be married. Every one, no matter what his circumstances, is entitled to the blessing of God upon his marriage," asserted Rev. Dr. Steeves, who is a writer and author, as well as a preacher.

PEASANTS WATCH OVER BULGARIA

Erring Officials Quickly Get Into Jail If They Rouse
Fighting Premier

By CONSTANCE STEPHANOVA
For International News Service
SOFIA, May 4.—"Watch your step" is the proper slogan for cabinet ministers in Bulgaria these days.

The penalty for the cabinet member who fails to watch his step is pretty certain to be arrest, with a subsequent trial that may bring either fines, imprisonment or banishment from the country. The nemesis of erring officials in Bulgaria is Premier Alexander Stambolsky. Since Stambolsky himself left off prison garb, in 1919, to don the habiliments of prime minister, no less than forty former members of the Bulgarian cabinet have been sent to jail. All of them are still in jail, and most of them are still awaiting trial.

Stambolsky, who is regarded as one of the most striking figures in the Balkans, is head of the peasant, or agrarian party, which controls the Bulgarian government. He has been a leader of the party for twenty years. In 1915, when King Ferdinand entered into an alliance with the German kaiser that brought Bulgaria into the World War on the losing side, Stambolsky openly warned the king of the danger of his course.

The king's answer to the warning was to order Stambolsky jailed. For three years the present premier languished in a cell and there worked out the form of government he has now set up in Bulgaria. Soon after he achieved his freedom he seized control of the government and himself ordered the banishment from Bulgaria of the king who had imprisoned him.

With the king sent into exile, Stambolsky began to "clean house." His first act was to order the members of the Radaslavoff cabinet imprisoned for having plunged Bulgaria into the war.

Three more cabinets subsequently were sent to prison for "having prepared and created conditions for the Balkan wars and for having failed to embrace opportunities for making peace." The members of the Radaslavoff government are now on trial; the others still languish in jail.

Intelligentsia in Cells
The imprisoned cabinetiers include many of the leading men of the nation. For the most part they represent the intelligentsia in Bulgaria. Among them are Malinoff, Danailoff, Fadenchev and others of international fame.

Among them are four former ministers and six professors of Sofia University. Premier Stambolsky outlined his attitude toward the imprisoned ministers in a recent speech to the Sobranie. "After our party's success in stabilizing the country, both at home and abroad," he said, "we shall now turn to the fulfillment of our treaty promises and the pledge we gave for the punishment of those in our midst who brought our national disaster. We shall not follow the ghastly example of Greece, but we shall demand that they be brought to justice in the slow and regular methods of the law."

Stambolsky has been more or less impartial in his treatment of cabinet members. Although most of his "victims" have been leaders of opposition parties, he has not hesitated to discipline the members of his own government. Three of the members of his cabinet have been removed from office and are to be tried on indictments charging them with using the power of their position for the enhancement of their personal ends.

SUGGESTS PLANS TO CLEAR DEBTS

Expert Brings Out Methods
By Which British May
Meet Obligations

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Great Britain is staggering under heavy taxation, and there are great popular protests against heavy income taxes. In the following article W. T. Layton, editor of the Economist, discusses the effects of Britain's heavy taxation and debt reduction.)

By W. T. LAYTON
Editor of the Economist
(Written for International News Service and London Daily News)

LONDON, May 4.—The repayment of the war debt is still the paramount problem of our national finance. Interest charges already consume over 40 per cent of our national expenditure, and as other items continue to fall we shall soon be paying one-half the budget revenue in interest on debt.

It is unthinkable that posterity will be content to allow the tax collector to go on collecting and redistributing as interest a sum which amounts to not far short of 10 per cent of the whole of our collective annual income. It is true that this process is not a net loss to Great Britain, for, so far as the internal debt is concerned, it means taxing one set of people and handing the proceeds to others.

But the process imposes a very heavy task upon the machinery of taxation, and, as the Labor party recognizes, it imposes a most serious barrier in the way of raising funds for other national purposes. But, unless we are prepared:

(a) to repudiate our debt as Russia has done, or

(b) to perform what is in effect, though not in name, a virtual repudiation, by inflating the currency, as has happened in Germany,

—there remain only two ways of dealing with the debt:

A capital levy or
A bold sinking fund policy.

It is clearly incumbent on those who reject the former plan to show that there is a reasonable prospect of treating the problem effectively by the longer, but less drastic, plan of debt reduction by means of a sinking fund.

Payment To Help Industry
It is said that while this may be sound in theory, this is not the time to apply the remedy; and the argument proceeds that, if the taxpayer is relieved, our trade and production will recover, and it will be possible to start the debt redemption later with less effort.

But there will always be those who think that some other form of spending is more important than money should take precedence over debt redemption, and it is important to realize that the repayment of debt is as good as, and probably much better for industry, than the remission of taxation.

Thus, if we contrast the economic effect of, say, 50,000,000 pounds repaid to holders of government securities as compared with the same sum of money left in the hands of the general taxpayer, there can be little doubt that in the latter case more of the money will be spent in immediate consumption, and in the former case more will be saved and invested in permanent form or as floating capital.

More In Circulation
During the last twelve months 125,000,000 pounds of money drawn from the taxpayer has become available in the nation's money market. This large sum has helped to cheapen money and supply the funds which have been reinvested in the loans raised in the city of London during the year.

During the same period there has been a steady absorption of about 500,000 workpeople into employment, and this process has unquestionably been assisted by the loans raised by home colonial and foreign borrowers who have placed orders in this country. In any case this increase in employment has involved the use of more circulating capital for the payment of wages and for the purchasing of raw material, etc. Nevertheless, there has been a serious rise in the rate of interest, but rather a slight reduction. There can be no continued reabsorption of our unemployed into industry unless there is a corresponding increase in the country's fixed or circulating capital.

A heavy income tax, the proceeds of which are used for debt redemption, is a device for enforcing compulsory saving, for the income tax is undoubtedly a restriction on the spending of the income tax-paying classes.

Nor should the income tax be condemned on the ground that it keeps up costs of production. Under normal conditions the income tax hardly affects prices at all, for it is the situation of the man who makes little or no profit whose costs determine prices.

Much the larger part of the proceeds of the income tax comes from surplus profits, the relief of which would increase those profits and not lower prices. The Liberal principle of graduated direct taxation, colonial and foreign borrowers who have placed orders in this country. by Miss Helen Dixon, of Los Angeles, entitled "In the Usual Way" and "Katy Did," tersely reigned supreme.

Among the many novel dances that followed was one where every member of the Los Angeles club caught dancing with a Los Angeles Exchangeette was fined $1 and the Glendale club vice versa. Incidentally any member of either club not dancing was also fined $1.

Another novel number that caused plenty of merriment and served to introduce the members of the two clubs to one another, was where the men lined up on one side of the room and the women on the other—and then, with the lights switched off and the ballroom in complete darkness, sped across the hall and selected partners by chance.

One man got his wife in this selection, much to the general amusement.

Shortly after 11 o'clock, Mr. Jackson broke his promise not to sing and favored the audience with "Glendale," an original number written for this city.

The end of the dance came all too soon, for everyone had had a thoroughly good time.

Plan New Camps for Florida Motorists

TAMPA, Fla., May 4.—Camp grounds for the convenience of motor tourists visiting Florida will be located on all main roads leading from the north to the south within a very few years if plans of the Motor Tourists' Association are carried out.

C. J. Brown, who has been in charge of the tourist camp at De Soto park, is president of the association, which, he states, will be incorporated under the laws of the state of Illinois.

The association is composed of tourists who come to Florida each year in automobiles and camp outdoors during the winter months. It is planned to locate the proposed camps about one day's journey apart. Florida camps will be at Jacksonville, Gainesville, Safety Harbor, Saratoga and other points.

CONSCRIPT CITIZENS To Battle Flames

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 4.—Forest fires raging on a four mile front again caused state police to conscript citizens to fight the flames. The fires broke out to the north of this city late last night and are still burning and threatening collier boiler houses and powder magazine sheds.

H. G. Chaffee Company Announces Dividend

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the H. G. Chaffee Company, a dividend of six per cent was declared on the common stock, payable May 8 on stock of record May 5. Because of the large surplus that has been built up a 50 per cent dividend was declared, payable in common stock, on May 21 to the common stockholders of record as of May 10.

F. E. Chaffee, vice president and general manager of the company, stated that the action of the directors in distributing profits by stock dividend rather than cash dividend, was because there had been so many demands for Chaffee Stores in Southern California that it was deemed to be the best interest of the stockholders to reinvest the profits in additional stores.

The company sales indicate a growth of practically all Southern California communities, and it is essential that Southern California industries keep pace with their development, he said.

American Legion to Hold Session Tonight

Commander Chalmer Day announced this morning that business of especial interest to Legionnaires will be discussed at 610 East Broadway tonight at the regular weekly meeting of Post 127.

Tomorrow night's dance, which is under the direction of Comrade LeRoy Fortier, will be discussed, and final arrangements will be made to have it one of the most successful ever put on by the local post of the American Legion.

Four Days More 'And Even This Means Maybe.'

Julian says, about his last issue: "I 'conscientiously believe' it is the 'safest,' 'soundest' and 'surest' big dividend paying oil investment that was ever submitted by myself or any other operator, and you know as well as I do that I have handed you 'some pretty rich plums.'"

I'm telling you it's a "Stem Winder" all the way. There are only 7500 units at $100 each, and there are not so many open right this minute, so take a tip from me and "step on the gas."

SHADE TREE GREAT HELP FOR CITY

State Forester Tells Why
Shade Is Needed and Should Be Aided

By M. B. PRATT
California State Forester

That trees are a material aid to the health, comfort and attractiveness of any city or town is receiving widespread recognition, and nowhere more than in Southern California.

From the viewpoint of health, trees help to purify the air by absorbing the carbonic acid gas that is exhaled by man, and giving back the pure oxygen he needs. It is very probable that much of the buoyant feeling had when in the forests is due to the pure air caused by this action of the trees.

Trees also help to modify the temperature of the streets and add to the comfort of the residents. Summer heat is intensified in cities by the reflection from pavements and buildings. The foliage of trees cuts off the direct and reflected rays of the sun, and exerts a marked effect on the temperature by evaporating large quantities of water. The reduction of the temperature, due to this release of water, is greatest in dry, hot days, when relief is most needed.

15 Degrees Cooler

The trees in the residence section of Sacramento, for instance, particularly on those streets lined with large elms, reduce the summer temperature 10 to 15 degrees, due to the moisture released and the cutting off of the sun's rays.

The appraisal of trees as a sanitary factor in the life of a city was confirmed by the commissioner of health of the city of New York, who stated that the cause of the high death rate during the summer months in that city is due to the excessive heat.

It was recommended in his report that means be taken whereby the department of parks could be empowered to plant and cultivate trees on all of the streets, avenues and public places of the city.

Medical Society Acts

The value of trees to the health of the city was further emphasized by the passage of the following resolution by the New York County Medical Society:

"Resolved, That one of the most effective means for mitigating the intense heat of the summer months and diminishing the death rate among children is the cultivation of an adequate number of trees in the streets."

The great economic value of shade trees cannot be disputed. Not long ago, the governor of Oregon told the people of Sacramento that its shade trees were one of the city's chief attractions, and lately certain legislators from Southern California have made public utterances on the beauty of our trees.

There is no doubt but that the presence or absence of trees in a city has a great influence on a stranger as to whether that city is or is not a good place to live in. Real estate people recognize this fact, and the majority of cases when new subdivisions are put on the market, trees are planted as soon as the streets are laid out.

The native oaks on residence lots in Oak Park are a real asset from a real estate standpoint, if for nothing else, and considerable expense has been gone to by various residents in emptying tree surgeons to prolong the lives of the trees that are in an unhealthy condition.

Effect On Morale

The aesthetic value of trees, strange to say, does not appeal to some people, who view them as nuisances because their roots have bulged the sidewalk or because their leaves have littered up the street for a little while. These petty annoyances caused by trees, however, are outweighed by far by the many benefits given by them, one of the chief benefits being that of the effect on the morale of the people.

Trees have an uplifting influence which tends to make people happier and better. "Show me your town or city and I will tell you the kind and quality of your citizens," is a rule which invariably holds true.

A town or city which permits the mutilation and destruction of its shade trees is lacking in civic pride, and its citizens cannot be depended upon, as a rule, to get behind any movement for civic betterment. On the other hand, it may be taken for granted that a town or city that cares for its trees has a spirit of local pride and civic patriotism that will build up the community in all ways.

Two American Women Seek Paris Divorces

PARIS, May 4.—Two more American women filed suit for divorce in the Seine tribunal, they are Mrs. Walter Harrington, formerly of Pasadena, Cal., and Mrs. Francis Simonds, of New York. Mrs. Harrington, whose maiden name was Backer, was married in Pasadena in 1916. Mrs. Simonds, whose maiden name was Edith Mann, was married in New York City in 1912. Both are now residents of Paris.

FUND FOR COLLEGES

First land grant act to create a special fund for the creation of agricultural colleges was passed by the United States congress in 1862.

HAITI'S NOWRIPE FOR DEVELOPMENT

President Borno Anxious to Develop Agriculture and Build School System

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, May 4.—The government is ready and willing to offer every possible inducement to secure investment of American capital in the vast, rich, but as yet practically undeveloped, natural resources of the republic.

This is the message which President Louis Borno of Haiti requested International News Service to give the American people. It is a message that comes direct from President Borno's heart, for he has dedicated his administration to the development of what he considers the most pressing need of the island republic—agriculture.

Torn by revolutions, strife, despotism for more than a century, Haiti now is well on the road to economic and financial prosperity, thanks to the efficiency of the United States Marine Corps, which out of chaos has accomplished the unprecedented fact of a presidential inauguration, free from military coercion or civil violence, at which the incoming and retiring presidents took part.

Through the marines President Borno is enabled to make his appeal to America for assistance in developing the fertile lands of the interior. But the work of the marines is not yet finished. Nobody in authority in the republic desires to have them leave, least of all President Borno, who feels their stabilizing effect is needed until the government is more firmly on its feet.

Can Sell Vast Tracts

For the first time in history the president is in a position to sell vast tracts of government land to foreign capital, preferably American, at prices ranging from $4 to $300 an acre. The law permitting this disposition was promulgated by President Borno and his Council of State, of twenty-one members, the legislative and ruling body of the republic.

Haiti is rich in natural resources. Her lands are fertile, most of which have not been tilled. Petroleum, lignite and a few other minerals have been discovered and already American companies are forming to exploit these resources.

Coffee, the chief product of the republic, grows wild. Last year more than 60,000,000 pounds were exported. President Borno declares this output can be doubled and trebled in a few years, with proper cultivation. Cotton, sugar and logwood are the other chief exports, the former producing 92.5 per cent of the total export trade. The volume of trade in 1922 was $23,062,481, an imposing figure considering Haiti throughout its entire length has never known scientific agriculture.

It is only natural in view of Haiti's turbulent political history, with its graft and its intrigues, that there should be poverty, intense poverty, illiteracy, a woeful lack of national feeling. Nearly 95 per cent of the population of 2,650,000 can neither read nor write.

Laying Down Policy

President Borno is seeking to relieve this situation. He realizes it cannot be done in his administration—perhaps for scores of years, but he is laying down the first national policy the republic has known. In years past, when the average tenure of office of a president was six months, little could be accomplished, no matter how high might have been the motives of the executive.

After agriculture is established Borno wants to provide an adequate educational system. But this cannot be done without the revenues derived from the farms. Teachers in the few schools at present are paid from $5 to $8 a month; most of the people are without means to send their children to school. Farm wages now are 20 cents a day; on government works wages are 30 cents a day—barely sufficient to sustain life. The people live on the tropical fruits, which, growing wild, are abundant throughout the island.

Under President Borno's direction good roads are being built in the interior regions, government irrigation projects are being started. These are under the supervision of American navy engineers.

And then, with a flash of his eyes that denoted his sincerity, President Borno concluded:

"Haiti is so poorly known in the States! It is so misrepresented and so misunderstood! We want Americans to come to us and invest their money. We have great opportunities for them."

Hammer Slayer Hid Near L. A. After Break

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—The hiding place of Clara Phillips, immediately after her escape from the Los Angeles jail here last December, was within a few hours' ride of Los Angeles by electric train, according to new information given out at the sheriff's office today.

Investigators reported that Etta May Jackson, Mrs. Phillips' "baby sister," was with Mrs. Phillips at least three days a few weeks after she broke jail. The investigators said that Mrs. Jackson was away from her mother's home here for three days, and that they found she had left the city by Pacific Electric train. The officers said they "shadowed" Mrs. Jackson, when she returned, arriving at the Pacific Electric station.

OPPOSE RISE IN BUILDING COSTS

Lumbermen and Government
Unite to Prevent Any Price Advance

Economists and business men agree that the only thing which can check the present unexampled building activity throughout the country is an increase in building costs. The United States government and the large lumber interests are endeavoring to prevent such an increase, it is said, in the belief that it would be of great harm to the industry. The West Coast Lumberman, on the other hand, contends that lumber prices are not unreasonable. The great trouble has been that for years lumber has been too cheap," it says.

However, efforts are being made to find ways of bringing about a lowering of the cost of lumber production. Such an achievement would come as a great boon to Glendale as well as to other communities throughout the country.

Prizes Are Offered

The National Lumber Manufacturers' Association is showing renewed interest in the move, and to strengthen the government's hand the association has again offered a series of prizes which will be awarded to those who contrive the best method, the newest machine or device which in practical application will result in an appreciable saving of labor, time, material or expense in the lumber manufacturing industry.

Heretofore, a single prize of $1,000 was offered each year to the successful contestant.

At the present time the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association is offering prizes amounting to $2,000, which will be divided as follows: First prize, $1,000; second prize, $500; third prize, $100; four prizes of $50.

Holly Leaves May Be Turned Into Cereal

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 4.—A method by which the prickles may be taken out of holly leaves, which could then be used as a breakfast food, is being sought by a committee of the Victoria, B. C., city council. The city is negotiating with Stephen M. Hoye, Yale scientist and chemist, and the State Agricultural College of Cornell, under George W. Cavanaugh, by whom the food value of holly leaf has been discovered. Their report indicates that the prickles can be extracted, also that the holly leaf contains several times as much protein as wheat, oats and corn, and eight times as much as barley.

After being put through a vacuum process holly leaf has been tried out on animals, which eagerly devoured it and grew fat. "Thousands of tons of these holly leaves are going to waste on Vancouver Island, where the pretty and valuable bush grows in profusion. Mayor Hayward, of Victoria, V. I., capital of British Columbia, believes holly leaves could be prepared and put up in cartons as successfully as the products which have made Battle Creek and other American centers famous.

"The hardest thing is to keep them from fighting. We have 'hot dog' suppers sometimes, and the monitors stand by and make the boys say 'thank you' as they get their sandwiches. If they don't say it, or if they keep their hats on, they get a kick or a blow that knocks them down."

All Right Under Dirt
"Boys are all right under their dirt, no matter where they come from," Miss Justice said. "They will start a battle right in the middle of Scripture reading if one unruly boy makes any noise, and they don't stop until he is punished."

Miss Justice herself is a flower of the Bowery. Thirty years ago

NEW YORK, May 4.—A few weeks ago a Bowery urchin threw a brick at a Salvation Army lass and today a nation-wide movement is afoot to polish little roughnecks into "little gentlemen."

And "Houston streeters," the gang that has long been a terror to other juvenile warrior bands on the East Side, have joined a Bible class en masse at the Bowery Corp of the Salvation Army and are going about singing hymns and talking religion and boasting that they're "gentlemen" now.

True, the Bible class is the most rough-and-tumble Bible class in the world, but all that means is just unharmed fifty boyhood. Miss Elizabeth Justice, 22, is the Salvation Army lass who took the brick and decided to build a chapel with it. Out of scores of well-meaning persons who have gone down into the East Side to work with boys she is the only one who ever got right down on her knees, made pals with the gangsters and aroused their interest. She had a brand-new field. She made the rounds and told the gangs there was going to be Sunday school at the Army hall Monday night. The boys liked her frank, "man-to-man" talk and said they'd come. Half of them were in their teens, but their idea of what a "Sunday school" was shown when they showed up Monday night, bringing all their baseball bats and gloves.

Miss Justice immediately picked out the gang leaders, made them "officers" in charge of order. Heads were rapped and shins were kicked blue, according to East Side ethics of enforcement, but order was obtained.

That was the start of "Daniel's Band"—it had to be "band," for "club" or "class" would have been fatal. The movement spread to other states, and national headquarters hopes soon to see Daniel's Bands in every city where the organization works.

Boys Confess Sins
The second gathering was turned into a "testimonial meeting." Miss Justice suggested that the boys tell the bad things they had done the previous week.

Up jumped Joseph Proszheimer, bully of the bunch, first in war, first in peace and first in fear from his followers.

"During the week I shot craps—I threw a brickbat at a cop—I stole money from the old lady—I played hooky—went to children's court twice—got into four fights—and got me nose busted!"

The gang roared with delight. Now that was a man! Threw a brick at a cop! That represented the Bowery's idea of courage. Miss Justice was a little uneasy, but she quickly met the situation with:

"Those are the bad things you did. Now, Joe, tell them what you are going to do next week." Joe shifted uneasily. He seemed to have something to say.

"Next week," he blurted out, "I ain't going to do any of them things—here, teacher," and he fished a pair of dice out of his pocket and handed them over. Others followed suit. The table was soon covered with dice, put-and-take toys, cigarette and cigar stumps, dime novels, cards and other Bowery treasures.

Now the gang would fight for Miss Justice. She got real contact with them.

"I'll tame them down later," said the Army lass. "They've got zeal all right. Their language is terrible sometimes in its vulgarity. They use outrageous words without knowing it is vulgar. They have been hearing such talk all their lives, and they are unconscious of it. But I'll teach them gradually."

"Fifty years ago it was assumed that woman was not meant to be useful. She was supposed to be ornamental and, above all things, attractive."

Smoke from the pipe contains the most nicotine, while that from the cigarette, the least, according to tests made.

Joe Justice was a Bowery bum. He wandered into a Salvation Army hall one night looking for a hand-out. Joe became interested in an earnest woman who was speaking, and in a few minutes he was converted, down on his ragged knees sobbing and talking to Jesus with all his might. Beside him knelt a woman convert whom he afterward married. Miss Elizabeth Justice is a prosperous laundry man. Maybe that's why Miss Justice broke down a barrier that has stopped many "social workers" and is turning the curses of the toughest gang in New York into psalms of love.

NEW WOMAN IS ONLY HALF FREE?

Still Partly Tied to Old, Old Traditions, Claim of Lady Rhondda

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, May 4.—"We stand halfway toward the new conception—we are only half way up the ladder of emancipation, and I am not certain whether we are going forward."

Lady Rhondda has sounded this warning to her sex. Unless modern woman forges ahead then the newly-gained emancipation is bound to be lost, the Viscountess declared. She has fears that women are resting upon the laurels which they have won and that they are slipping back into the place in the world which their grandmothers held fifty years ago.

War Helped Growth
"The war helped us to get out of the old state of affairs," Lady Rhondda declared.

"Since the war we have been slipping back again, and the idea that woman should be ornamental and not useful has been cropping up again. It is not possible that instead of going forward womanhood may once more recede to the conditions of fifty years ago?"

Lady Rhondda has no sympathy for those who would criticize modern "flapperdom." There have always been "flappers," and they have always been subjected to criticism, she says.

"The young women of today are no worse than their grandmothers," the viscountess said.

Girls Ever the Same
"They don't differ one iota. There is one generalization which throughout the ages does not change—the generalization about the modern young woman. What we are saying about her today was said about her yesterday and will be said in days to come. The modern girl has always been held in much the same disapprobation."

"Let me read from an issue of the Saturday Review of 1863. This article charges that the modern young women of the period were dyeing their hair and painting their faces. This critic wrote: 'She dresses to please herself and does not care if she displeases everybody else.' Many of the critics of today are merely reechoing the words of critics of a half century ago."

More Emancipation
"There are two main differences between the woman of today and her sister of fifty years ago. Today does not compare quite so unfavorably with the education of her brother. In the second place, the woman of today is allowed to some extent only, to develop and not to suppress her faculties and individuality."

Better Phone System Is Urged for England

LONDON, May 4.—In the house of Commons considerable discussion recently took place regarding the question of improving the telephone service in the rural sections of the country. According to officially published figures, telephone development in England is now confined practically to the towns and cities. The total number of rural stations believed to be about 5,200. The Postmaster-General expressed his willingness to do everything practicable to extend the telephone service throughout the rural communities, though he refused to consider favorably proposals that these communities be permitted to provide in any form for their own telephone installations.

an increase of five couples in at-brave enough this week to come out and we hope more will follow their example.Miss Morgan of Tujunga, who instructs the class, makes the lessons very clear. Anyone wanting a jolly sociable evening should join the class, which meets in the happy over her return, the church

TUJUNGA

LEGION POST TO GIVE VAUDEVILLE

Great Array of Talent on Big
Program; Mrs. J. Kimpel
Honored by FriendsFriday and Saturday nights,
May 4 and 5, are big nights at the club house of the American Legion Post 250, at Tujunga. On these nights will be given the vaudeville show that they have been several weeks arranging.
From the array of talent displayed on the program the show will be well worth seeing.A. J. Scribner is chairman of the program committee, and they have booked eight acts that look like the goods. There will be dancing, one-act plays, recitations by juvenile speakers, comedy skits and whistling and other musical numbers, by performers who have proved their ability in the past.
A new stage has been built to accommodate the dancing numbers and will offer a much better setting for the many excellent numbers.Most of the talent will be local, as there is plenty of all kinds here, but one or two of the acts are from Los Angeles, by people who are coming clear out here to help make this show a sure success. Elina Noyes, seven-year-old daugette of the Egan and Krea-mer schools, will present her special solo dance for the approval of Tujunga. Little Miss Elina is studying with the Kremer school and promises to become a future star. Miss Helen Rugg of the same school will appear on Saturday night. She was to have appeared on both occasions, but school engagements prevent the Friday night appearance.Miss Rugg will offer one or two of the dances she has given for the Hotel Virginia, at Long Beach, and many other well-known show places, including the Philharmonic Auditorium in Los Angeles.Mrs. Leola McDowell Herman will whistle some of the popular and old favorite pieces.Mrs. S. D. Wiggins and Loretta Wiggins will present "The Office Boy." Charles Kellar and L. H.
Fisher will give their version of"Rural Justice." J. L. Smith and Mr. Wiggins will conduct the "Employment Bureau." Any unemployed persons may be able to learn something to their advantage by applying here on either of both of these nights.Mrs. Scribner and Company have arranged a group of "Songs." Mrs. Scribner studied music with the Egan school in Los Angeles for several years and has a very pleasing voice.Miss Catherine Crews will be supported by Jack Bloodgood, Allardice, Alfred Johnson and Scribner himself in "The Stowaways." These five have performed together before, to the delight of former audiences.Loretta Wiggins and Company will present "Peck's Bad Girl."
The proceeds from this show will go to the fund for purchasing the club house, Bolton Hall, which the Post 250 boys undertook some time ago. Their ingenuity in devising clever and entertaining ways of raising the money is meeting with success and they hope to have a clear title to the hall before many more months.Plans for the coming annual show by the Mission Players are nearing completion and the outline of that program will be released very soon. It is through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. John McGoarty that this annual spring show is given. It will be given in the Garden of the Moon open air pavilion on Michigan avenue, on May 21. Many reservations have been made by out-of-town people already, and the seating capacity of nearly 1,500 will be taxed to the limit, from advance indications. The proceeds of this show will also go largely to the American Legion. Part will go to the Tujunga Episcopal church and a small percentage will be used to defray actual expenses.The annual convention of Parent-Teacher Associations was attended in Los Angeles at the Walker building by twelve delegates from Tujunga this year.
Last year this district was entitled to but three, but the organization has grown to such an extent that four times that number were sent this year, which is quite a creditable accomplishment.
Conclusions may be drawn as to the interest taken in the work and the spirit of co-operation among the officers and members when the above figures are compared. In the intervening months the association has been steadily growing and the showing made was a surprise to some of the other associations. The officers and members are to be commended for their splendid work, which speaks well for the character and training of the future citizens who are being trained in the Tujunga school.There are now 332 members in the Tujunga association, while there are but 268 pupils enrolled in the school. This in itself is significant and speaks for itself.
That means that there are sixty-four more members than there are pupils, a situation that is selfcommendatory.The attendance at meetings is very good, there being very sel-dom less than seventy members present. This is a larger number than many of the big city organizations can boast, where the membership is much greater.Tujunga's report compared favorably with the other associations, and came as a pleasant sur-made at the last convention.Mrs. Gray, vice-president of the

with the federated presidents.

Death Probe Leads To California Jail

CHICAGO, May 4.—Following an all-night questioning of a score of Northwestern university students, in the inquiry into the death of Leighton Mount, 18, freshman, who disappeared during the class rush in September,
1921, and whose body was found
Monday under a pier at Evanston, the state attorney's office today was seeking Allen Mills, a former student, now reported to be in a California prison.A veiled accusation against Mills by William McElwain, his former room-mate, was the most tangible clue that developed. Mc-Elwain declared that Mills returned to his room, dripping wet on the night of the class fight and seemed worried.The news of Mount's disappearance, according to McElwain, seemed to increase Mills' distraction, and he often asked about
Mount.Expert Cake Baker

REVUE IS SHOWN TO BIG AUDIENCE

High School Auditorium Is Packed to Witness Spicy Comedy

More than a thousand people viewed the third performance of the "Fun Revue" given by the Community Players last night at the High School auditorium, under the auspices of the Community Service organization. Hundreds of people were turned away, unable to find seats or standing room. The class rooms at the rear of the auditorium were thrown open and even then the seating capacity was not large enough to accommodate all those desiring to enjoy this musical comedy so full of fun and mirth.

The Community Players would be glad to give this kind of entertainment quite often, states Mrs. Nanno Woods, director, if the city afforded a place large enough to accommodate their friends. However they have not given up hopes that Glendale will soon have a civic center suitable for this kind of entertainment.

The comedy was repeated last night not only for the enjoyment of the citizens of Glendale, but also to show them what an asset the Community Players are to the community in furnishing clean, wholesome entertainment.

The next production will be "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," in which several well-known professionals will take leading roles. This will be produced some time in June.

Clark of San Francisco, vice president; Dr. John Comstock, director of the Southwest Museum, chairman of program; Miss Eunice Munson of Lincoln high school, treasurer; Alfred Wright, secretary.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY PASSED

Daughters of American Revolution Pay Tribute To Mrs. Braly

In memory of Mrs. Mary Howard Gridley Braly, organizing and life regent of the General Gridley chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, resolutions were drawn up at the chapter meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward at 307 North Kenwood street.

The resolutions sent to Mrs. Braly's husband, John Hyde Braly and her daughter, Mrs. Erminis Kirk of Santa Barbara, were:

"Whereas, in the death of Mrs. Mary Howard Gridley Braly on April 26, 1923, regent of the General Richard Gridley chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of Glendale, California, the chapter has lost from its membership a noble soul whose ideals of patriotism and service have left an indelible impress upon our chapter.

Record Sorrow

"Therefore he it resolved, That we, the members of the General Richard Gridley chapter assembled in meeting on this the second day of May 1923 record our sorrow in the death of her who loved our society and ever sought its welfare with all the power of her true spirit, and that the name of Mary Howard Gridley Braly shall be forever remembered among those whom we rejoice to have known and loved.

"Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Braly's husband and daughter with expressions of our profound sympathy and a copy be spread on our minutes and placed in our history as a token of our deep sense of loss in the death of one whom we ever held in high honor and whose memory will be forever cherished amongst us."

These were signed by Miss Ida D. Myers, Mrs. Lizzie S. Hayward, chairman of resolutions, and Anne S. Crawford, secretary.

COUNCILMEN WILL BE G. A. R. GUESTS

Invitation to Be Present at Decoration Day Exercises Extended

The City Council last night was extended an invitation by Thomas M. Barrett of 364 West Wilson avenue, commander of the N. P. Banks Post of the G. A. R., to attend Memorial Day Exercises, May 30, in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

Mr. Barrett stated that he was making the announcement early so that the members of the Council could arrange "to grace the occasion with their presence." They concurred in expressing their interest and accepted the invitation with thanks.

City Clerk A. J. Van Wie later during the session read the following communication from Rev. C. R. Norton of 801 East Wilson avenue, chaplain of the G. A. R., and Richardson D. White of 109 South Brand boulevard, secretary of the program committee:

"To civic, patriotic and fraternal organizations: You are cordially invited to cooperate in the celebration of Decoration Day, May 30, 1923.

"The program outlined will consist of a parade in the afternoon, the decoration of soldiers' graves at Forest Lawn cemetery and exercises at that point.

"It is the desire of the G. A. R., the W. R. C. and other organizations sponsoring the program of the day that as great a number of organizations as possible participate.

"The meeting to make the final arrangements for the day will be held in the Wilson avenue school Thursday evening, May 10."

Pupils Take Charge Of School Cafeteria

The A 8 classes at the Wilson Avenue School will take charge of the school cafeteria today and serve luncheon to the two classes. All of the food is furnished by the boys and girls and the money netted from the sale will be used to finance the class in the matter of a gift to the school. Miss Duffey, Miss Chase, Mr. Merrill and Mrs. MacLennan, together with committees from the classes, have charge of the sale.

Ninety-five thousand pedestrians pass Canal and Lafayette streets, New York, between 5 p. m. and 7 p. m. each week day.

DEMAND REMOVAL OF FERRY'S CAMP

City Health Officer Asserts Contractor Abides by Sanitary Rules

Peter L. Ferry of 614 East Acacia avenue and some of his neighbors occupied a large part of last night's session of the city council.

Mules were the center of the discussion, although the neighbors admitted that what they really wanted was to have the entire grading camp moved from the vicinity.

Contractor Ferry stated that his property at present is acreage, and that it was impossible for him to find a site for his camp of similar size at the same price for which he could sell his present property. He stated that he planned to move his camp as soon as Park avenue was cut through the center of his property, so that he could subdivide it.

William E. Howell of 624 East Acacia avenue was the spokesman for the protesters. He suggested that the camp should be ordered abated as a public nuisance. His remarks were backed up by the individual comments of about fifteen other protesters.

Complies With Law

Dr. G. Kaemerling, city health officer, stated that the camp was complying with all sanitary regulations. He asserted that the health department had no power to molest it and that the only way that this could be accomplished would be through a civil suit.

When asked for an opinion, Attorney Ray Morrow, assistant city attorney, stated the city council could regulate the keeping of the mules, but that it could not order the camp removed, order the Mexicans living there to move away or regulate the keeping of the machinery upon the premises.

After considerable discussion, Contractor Ferry offered to move his mules if his neighbors would be satisfied to permit the camp to remain. They united in agreeing that they would not be satisfied.

About an hour and a half after the subject first came up, Councilman Sam Davis introduced the ordinance regulating the keeping of horses, ponies, mules, cows, pigs and other animals within the confines of the city of Glendale.

BUDGET BILL IS UP TO GOVERNOR

Chief Executive May Use His Blue Pencil Upon Some Amendments

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, May 4.—A mere matter of legislative record: The budget bill passed today from the legislature into the hands of the governor. The senate amended to include $1,450,000 for the Southern Branch University of California; made its language comply with legal requirements satisfactory to the state controller; added $16,800 for forestry work suggested by Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena; $5,000 for the Women's Relief Corps home; and made the real estate and fish and game commissions self-sufficient. The assembly concurred in the amendments.

It now remains for Richardson to use his blue pencil on these amendments dealing with teaching colleges and other things thought necessary by certain representatives and passed by a majority of one or two votes in the assembly. About a million dollars is concerned in the $80,000,000 appropriations so summarily dealt with after weeks of struggle.

Another matter of legislative record of interest to Glendale: The Baker apportionment bill yesterday was defeated in the assembly by a vote of 52 to 22, the author changing to "no" in order to move for reconsideration. It was a fell blow to the hopes of Southern California, but Assemblyman Frank C. Weller, co-operating with Jeffery Prendergast of San Bernardino has hope of solving the question in another bill now lying dormant in committee.

Against Southland

There is little to be said of the reapportionment debate, which was lengthy and at times irrelevant, other than to note that Edgar Stow of Santa Barbara county, and Walter H. Duval of Ventura county, voted against Southern California, although the latter is a resident of Los Angeles. Faith was broken in several instances, but two from the North did vote for and speak in behalf of the Baker bill. To Assemblymen E. H. Christian and George C. Cleveland thanks are due by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

Southern Californians were expected to vote for the measure, and they did, with the exception of Stow and Duval.

Now for the grinding out of the final grist of bills, including motor vehicle regulations, and the work will be done. May 17 is now suggested as a possible date for adjournment.

GOLD STAR ROADS TO HONOR HEROES

National Society of World War Registrars Completes Foundation

By W. F. SULLIVAN
For International News Service
ST. LOUIS, May 4.—After three years of tireless effort the National Society of World War Registrars announces that it has completed the foundation for reorganization in every state in the Union. The society is composed of blood relatives and wives of World War veterans.

Its first big project is aimed for the establishment of Gold Star highways to be so routed to help make a continuous thoroughfare from the lakes to the gulf, thus creating a National Gold Star Crossroads system which will intersect at a point near the geographical center of the United States.

These highways will stand as tributes to the Gold Star mothers and as monuments to their Gold Star sons.

Center at St. Louis

Being situated geographically as probably the largest central city, a movement has been started to have St. Louis designated as the intersectional point where would be erected a huge "Arch of Freedom" in this city. Each state would be represented by a block of granite in the construction of this central arch.

Missouri was the first state asked to name and dedicate such memorial highways all recently constructed permanent roads to be built from the state bond issue and federal aid roads.

Governor Hyde two years ago recommended that no state highway be named until permanently constructed, but he now has named, as designated by the state highway commissioner, the Kansas City-St. Louis road as the Gold Star Crossroad of Missouri.

All States Invited

Every governor and highway commissioner in every state of the Union has been asked by the World War Registrars to pay a similar tribute to their Gold Star mothers and their fallen sons. In the appeal to the various states it also has been urged that the highways so designated shall lead in the direction of and converge in a central city of the United States, thus creating a nation-wide "Gold Star Monument."

The majority of states have endorsed the project, and a number of them have designated roads leading toward St. Louis.

It is planned at various intervals, preferably at points where roads converge and where the various state roads meet, to mark the highways by the erection of arches or pillars.

The society hopes to have all the roads lined with trees suitable to the climate, each to bear a gold-colored metal star bearing the name of a veteran, his rank, organization, etc., the plan to be carried out until all veterans who died in the service from each community shall have a marker dedicated to his memory.

ORNAMENTAL LIGHTS

Ornamental street lights in many cities of this country throw two-thirds of their illumination upwards and thus waste it, as well as causing eye injuries and making automobile traffic more dangerous, says experts.

KIDNAPS BABY IN AUTO CRASH

Most Peculiar Accident Leads To Arrest

One of the most remarkable cases in Massachusetts courts has resulted in the arrest, on the charge of murder, of Fred Miller, of Pittsfield, Massachusetts. Miller, driving his car at high speed, ran into a group of five persons who were waiting for a car. Miss Mildred E. Holt and John P. Garrison were instantly killed. Mrs. Garrison was hurled far away, and her little baby, Ruth, three years old, was torn from her arms. The baby actually fell into the speeding automobile. Miller did not stop, and it was the discovery of the baby, uninjured, in his home, that led to his arrest. He admits the double killing.

STATESMEN VERY ACTIVE IN SPORTS

British Keep in Trim and
Would Be Hard Match
For Congressmen

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, May 4.—Fine old English sporting traditions and the love of English sport are well represented in the British House of Commons.

Every branch of sport is well represented in the House, and were to the House of Representatives of the United States if an International Political Sporting Carnival is ever held! The English politicians would undoubtedly leave their American political opponents wheezing and sputtering far in the distance.

Cricket is the great national game in England, and therefore it seems fitting that one of the best gentlemen cricketers should be chairman of the Conservative party. Lieutenant Colonel F. S. Jackson holds this enviable position, and his cricket record at Harrow and Cambridge is notable.

Ronald McNeil, under secretary for foreign affairs, has been a noted cricketer, football player and tennis player and still maintains a very considerable amount of athletic ability.

Major Cope is a well-known Rugby player and also has a reputation as an oarsman. E. G. Hemmerde, K. C., won the Diamond Sculls, and General H. Page Croft twice won the Thames Challenge Cup at Henley, while Sir Montague Barlow, minister of labor, once stroked King's college at Cambridge.

There are even some capable boxers in the House of Commons. Lieutenant Colonel James was the champion heavyweight of the army, and Lieutenant Commander Kenworthy was the champion heavyweight of the navy. Both of these men still wield a wicked punch.

Captain E. Wallace and Major H. R. Cayzer are the best poloists of the House of Commons, while Earl Winterton, under secretary for India, and Sir R. A. Sanders, minister of agriculture, are well-known hunt masters.

L. S. Amery, first lord of the admiralty, is an expert mountaineer, while Lady Astor is one of the best women skaters in Europe.

Lieutenant Colonel J. T. C. Moore-Brahazon, who was the first Englishman to fly, could represent the House of Commons in any contest in the air. He is also a racing motorist.

In minor sports, such as swimming, rifle shooting and handball, the House of Commons has many able players.

Bonar Law might qualify as a sportsman through his ability at chess.

FEAR INJURY TO PRINCE OF WALES

Premier Gentleman Jockey
Is Made to Know He Has Big Responsibilities

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, May 4.—England's premier gentleman jockey is being seriously urged to give up riding. David, Prince of Wales, is the premier gentleman jockey of England, and, moreover, he is one of the most daring riders in the land, and therein lies the secret of the effort to persuade him to give up racing.

The prince has had an active season, one full of spills, and the people of the nation are becoming worried lest one fine day they will lose their future king because of the fall of a horse.

Pressure Exerted
It is whispered that in the royal family circle there has been great pressure brought to bear to convince the prince that he has a responsibility to bear which is entirely incompatible with the sport of steeplechase racing, with its long and hazardous jumps.

During the past racing season the prince has had nearly half a dozen falls, none of which have been really serious, although on more than one occasion he has been forced to restrict his activities as the result of his falls. For several weeks after one fall the prince hobbled about on crutches. His latest exploit followed a fall in a water ditch, and the prince risked his own life by plunging into the water in an effort to save his horse, which was floundering about in the water.

Fear Daring Rides
The English people respect the sportsmanship of the prince and regard him as a daring and courageous jockey, but they feel that perhaps it would be better if he did not take the hazardous risks of riding over some of the most difficult courses in England.

When the next racing season comes, if pressure prevails, the prince will not be as active among the gentlemen jockeys, but will confine most of his riding to hunts.

The question remains, however, whether the prince is going to be amenable to pressure. He is very keen about racing and counts it as one of his greatest sports. The odds are ten to one that it will take great weight to keep his colors off the steeplechase courses, even though his closest advisers are against his riding.

Postoffice Closes Because of No Heat

BEAVER, Pa., May 4.—Patrons at the local post office during the recent period of cold weather found the following sign posted on the stamp window:

"Office closed; no heat. Landlord at fault; no coal."
Patrons who rent lock-boxes were given access to the lobby of the office, but no other business was transacted during the day.

Under the terms of the government contract the owner of the building is required to supply heat, the postmaster says.

Hydrogen is lighter and cheaper than coal gas.

Girl Hit by Automobile Escapes Serious Hurts

Lorraine Rudolph, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Rudolph of 353 West Colorado, was badly frightened in an automobile accident about 3:30 p. m. yesterday afternoon, but escaped serious injury.

Harley G. Preston, realtor, of 12 West Colorado street, had just left his residence and was going north on Columbus avenue.

"Without warning this little girl dashed across the street at over twenty-five feet per second," remarked Mr. Preston. "I blew the horn and put on the brakes including the emergency, but she kept on running, swerved sharply to the left to avoid her but it couldn't be done. The bumper just touched her and she left front wheel passed over her legs."

Dr. John Anderson of 104 West California avenue reported that Lorraine had received no serious injuries.

Water Problems Are Council Meet Topic

Water in the territory just east of Verdugo canyon, or rather the lack of it, was discussed again last night by the City Council.

The subject was brought up by the following letter from Mrs. Alice Burns of 1821 Alpha road, which was read by City Clerk A. J. Van Wie:

"Gentlemen: I am asking you for a definite statement as to when the east side of Verdugo road will be given an adequate supply of water. We have had promises for over a year but still no water. Something must be done before summer."

Mayor Spencer Robinson called attention to the efforts made by the city administration to solve this problem and stated that another conference would be held today with F. P. Newport at which it was hoped that the snarl would be untangled.

MORNING GLORIES IN BIG LEAGUES

Several Much Touted Stars Fail to Show Stuff as Season Opens

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, May 4.—It may be a bit early for morning glories, the present season being a particularly backward one, but there are indications that the human crop in the major leagues, at least, is not only expensive, but large. Perhaps, after all, this will be the last year of extravagant minor league purchases, as John McGraw and other smart baseball men are prone to believe. McGraw most certainly will not be a party to another orgy of spending, unless Jimmy O'Connell and Jack Bentley soon begin to resemble major league ball players, something they have contrived to avoid since the opening of the season.

Bentley, who is said to have cost $65,000, has failed to last five innings in two starts, and either Stengel or Cunningham is expected to replace the $75,000 O'Connell, unless he starts to hit, pronto.

Willie Kamm, the most costly of the lot, has done well enough for the White Sox, and probably will do better. His hitting has not been impressive, but Kamm is expected to live that down. He looks the part of a hitter. So does O'Connell, and, as a matter of fact, Bentley looks like a pitcher. He got a very late start in the south and may come along.

Tiger Outfielder May Figure in First Big Deal of 1923 Baseball Season

Henry Manush, left, whose playing has led Cobb to put Ira Flagstead right, on the market, according to rumors.

By NORMAN E. BROWN

With the big league season only a few days old there are various impending trades calculated to strengthen the various clubs, which found the winter acquisitions and results unsatisfactory.

And one of the bits of gossip spread by the well-known Mrs. Rumer is that Ira Flagstead, slugging Detroit gardener, will soon be handed railroad fare and Pullman diner money to some other American league city. An infielder or pitcher will get his old locker in the Tiger club house.

There are several conditions that make this move on Cobb's part sound reasonable.

Reason No. 1 is Mr. Henry Manush, late of the Western league. This outfielder bozo is hitting so hard and fielding so well when he gets a chance that he seems ready now to step into the shoes of the veterans Bobby Veach or Harry Heilmann when needed.

Reason No. 2 is Robert Fothergill, late of the International league, whose official title is "Ty Cobb's understudy," and who is recognized over the league as being one of the sweetest young sluggers outfielders answering the big league alarm clocks in the morning.

Reason No. 3 is the fact that Flagstead and Cobb never have been bosom chums, although this animosity hasn't worked to the detriment of the club.

Cobb has a surplus of slugging outfielders. He still could use a peppy new second sacker or third baseman. Also a good pitcher. The general belief is, though, that he would like an infielder. He started the season with the veteran Cutshaw playing second and Bobby Jones at third. Cutshaw is slipping rapidly, his steadying influence in the infield being the main reason for his presence there. Jones is a good third baseman, but not one of the best. It's a toss-up between Haney and Jones now, and neither is a whiz. The Indians and the Red Sox are mentioned as possible parties to a deal for Flagstead. Maybe something will turn up.

U. S. GOLFER WINS BRITISH TROPHY

Francis Ouimet Is Victor in Final Round for Amateur Championship

By ROBERT E. HARLOW
For International News Service
SANDWICH, Eng., May 4.—Francis Ouimet of Boston today won the play-off from Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, Ore., for the St. George's challenge cup in the international golf tournament.

The match proved a tense finish, Ouimet winning by a single stroke at the end of 18 holes, an advantage gained on the opening hole, where he took a four against a rival five.

The medal scores were: Ouimet, 77, and Dr. Willing 78. Their cards were: Ouimet—Out 545 344 544-37; Willing—Out 553 544 534-38.

Ouimet—In 544 455 355-40; Willing—In 445 465 354-40; 78.

While his putting was not as sensational as that he displayed yesterday, Ouimet's game on the whole was pretty to watch. He took three putts on the second, sixth and eighth holes, halving the first two and losing the last. On the thirteenth he was wide with a seven foot putt.

On the fourth hole, however, Ouimet gave the gallery a taste of his resourcefulness by playing a spoon shot within two feet of the pin for a sensational 3 on a 432 yard hole.

He was, in fact, longer with his wood shots than Dr. Willing throughout the entire round, his advantage thus gained from the tee standing him in good stead whenever he faltered on or near the greens. This was particularly evident on the fifth hole where Ouimet's greater length permitted him to get a half in 4 in spite of Willing's astonishing putt of 25 yards.

Separated From Wife, Cherishes Baby Son

ATLANTA, Ga., May 4.—Tapping his darkened way up the stone steps of police headquarters, E. W. Hazel, blind, every Saturday keeps an appointment with the law and his family. A woman waits him with a child in her arms. It is Hazel's baby son. The blind man takes the baby in his arms a while, gently touches the baby face with fingers that must serve as eyes, then returns the child to his mother's arms.

Hazel told Municipal Judge Johnson that he could not live with his wife, but wanted to be with the baby at least once a week.

Before he taps his way out and back to his "stand" he gives the probation officer $4 in nickels and dimes that have been dropped in his tin cup. The money helps support the baby.

TAGGING ALL-BASES

The Cardinals eked out a 3 to 2 victory over the Cubs, thanks to young Mr. Bottomley. His singles in the sixth and eighth innings scored all the Cards' runs against Alexander.

Those Bersek Tigers slipped into the lead in the American league race by macing Uhle, Metvier and Smith for fifteen hits and the Indians for a 6 to 5 victory.

The White Sox were held to five hits by Danforth while the Browns went on to win, 6 to 3. Blankenship didn't have anything but a name.

Cy Williams' sixth home run of the season, with one on in the seventh, gave the Phillies a 6 to 4 decision over the Braves. Powell also obliged with a home run.

Successful drop kicks by Hale and Galloway in the third permitted the Red Sox to gain a 3 to 1 victory over the Athletics in spite of Hasty's brilliant pitching.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Chicago—Mickey Walker stopped Morrie Schlaifer, sixth round; Carl Tremaine beat Hilly Levine, ten rounds; Jack Britton outpointed Joe O'Hara, ten rounds; Joe Sanders and Bud Perrell draw, five rounds; George Butch and Jimmy Dennis, draw, five rounds.

AT NEW YORK—George Ward, Elizabeth, N. J., got decision over Joe Jackson, Philadelphia, 12 rounds; Paul Doyle, New York, got decision over Sid Fluke, Galveston, Texas, six rounds.

Paddock's Suspension May Last Six Months

NEW YORK, May 4.—The suspension of Charley Paddock, world's champion sprinter, for competing in a set of games in Paris, contrary to the edict of the Amateur Athletic union, is taken to mean by track and field authorities here that Paddock will not be allowed to start in the national championships at Chicago next September. Although the length of time Paddock is to be "set down" has not been announced, it is understood that it will be at least six months. That would carry over the date of the championship meeting.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Are California athletes and the California Lawn Tennis association ignoring their national governing bodies?

The fact that Charles Paddock, the most famed sprinter of the day, has said that he will run in Paris against the rulings of the A. A. U. is one outstanding fact which points that way. Now we also have the case of that great little tennis star Bill Johnston, being sent to England by the California Lawn Tennis association without the authority of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Both these cases are in direct contradiction to the rules, both written and unwritten, of the two national governing bodies concerned. In the case of Paddock it is pretty certain that the French authorities will not permit him to run if he does not have the backing of the U. S. A. A. U.

In the case of Johnston it is a little different and he is going abroad on a precedent, several of them in fact. It is pointed out that years ago the California Lawn Tennis association sent May Sutton abroad and she won the world title and the trip was made without the sanction of the National Lawn Tennis body. Then there are many instances of tennis players participating in foreign tournaments without the authority of the national body, a notable one being the Olympic games of many years ago when Roosevelt Pell participated. There are also other such instances.

It is hardly likely that Johnston's participation will be interfered with abroad even if the national body is not sending him and his case is again paralleled by a few years ago Molla Bjurstedt went abroad as an individual without official backing.

Athletic officials are closely watching Paddock, however, in his intention to compete against the dictates of the A. A. U. He has been refused any permit but says he will compete if the University of Paris wants him to do so. Paddock bases his claim on the fact that he is going abroad as a college athlete and not as an A. A. U. participant. He contends that the A. A. U. has no legal jurisdiction over college men. Up to the point of lack of control over college men in this country Paddock is correct, but he overlooks the greater and wider field of international competition where collegiate governing has nothing to say. Any foreign athlete of any type in the sports controlled by the A. A. U. is not in this class—must have full backing of the governing body of his country before he can compete abroad. If the University of Paris or French A. A. U. officials demand Paddock to produce his credentials from the U. S.—and he cannot do it—he will not be permitted to compete. If he does compete, then he not only is disqualified in this country, but there is going to be started a series of international "fireworks" in which the French and all other competitors are going to be dragged on the carpet by the International Federation.

Willard has been for some time conditioning himself for his attempted "comeback" in the pugilistic ring, but thus far the critics who have observed his conditioning have written favorably concerning it. He has been few and far between. One of the criticisms has been that, while Willard may have retained much of the terrific power that he used to have in his blow, his judgment of distance is so faulty that he will miss every time by a mile and, at the same time, lay himself open for a counter attack by his opponent that will spell disaster.

Another thing that must have serious consideration is the fact that middle age is lacking in the recuperative powers of youth. A minute between rounds is plenty for the youngster to make a fresh start, but the old star of slower recuperative powers will not go into the next round fully recovered from the efforts of the previous stanza.

Of course, these are not the days of the 40 and 45-round and to a finish contests, but even in a limited round bout the older man is likely to find himself in distress for the reason that a younger opponent will not allow him to recover, but continue to press him at full speed, something that was foreign to the unlimited bouts where conservation of energy was necessary to go over a long distance. Whether long or short, the

Coordination of action, the functioning of the various physical qualities simultaneously is one of the big factors in any form of sport. The fact that sports writers have said that Willard has lost his sense of distance means that his eye and his arm have lost the cunning of working together. Other departments of the physical frame will also be found lagging in this sense. In other words, muscular and nervous team work is lacking and, instead, each is functioning more or less independently of the other.

In a man like Willard, who never was too active a thinker, it's a cry from the place where his brains ought to be down to his feet, though he still may be considered a lively man on his pedal extremities for a man of his huge bulk. Footwork in the ring, at its best, means coordination of movement with the sequence of blows delivered. Hands and feet cannot work independently, and that seems to be another of the failings that will best Willard.

California Leads in Enrollment at Camp

California leads all states on the western slope in enrollment for Citizens' Military Training Camps this year. Figures made public yesterday at the Presidio of San Francisco by Colonel Ernest V. Smith, chief of staff, 91st Division, show this state already has 356 applicants accepted and 593 requests for applications, making a total of 949 potential students up to date. The state's quota is 1,000.

At the same hour as the above totals were made, the 104th Division at Salt Lake City, with the whole of Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada to draw from, had less than 100 applications. The 96th Division at Portland, with Washington and Oregon to furnish recruits, had less than fifty.

Twelve California counties have already more than filled the quotas allowed them for this year. They are San Diego, Sacramento, Glenn, Napa, Trinity, Nevada, Calaveras, Siskiyou, San Luis Obispo, Merced, Yuba and Modoc. Although quotas are filled, Colonel Smith announces, a limited number of applicants may still be accepted from those who drop out later and take the places left vacant by other counties lagging behind. He urges young men of the state who want to avail themselves of this 30-day free vacation and training to write immediately to Headquarters, 91st Division, Presidio of San Francisco.

BURBANK

WILL ADVERTISE CITY IN MOVIES

Women's Club Launches Plan to Get Publicity For Burbank

The women of Burbank feel that they can play an important part in advertising the city, by the screening of scenic and industrial films at various conventions and assemblies of women's clubs throughout Southern California.

This statement was made by Mrs. May Clarke, chairman of the Better Films committee, at a recent meeting of the Women's club, at which it was brought out that Burbank is not getting the celluloid representation before these assemblies that other cities manage to obtain. This was clearly demonstrated, Mrs. Clarke said, at the recent convention in San Luis Obispo.

To correct this failure to utilize a powerful potential advertising medium, the matter has been taken up with the Chamber of Commerce, with the result that in the near future Burbank will probably have a fine ribbon of film to unwind upon suitable occasions, showing her beautiful residential districts, her industries, her thriving business section, her ranches, her mountains, her water supply and many other similar scenes.

Takes Leadership
In inaugurating such a program the women's club once more goes on record as a leader in civic improvement and municipal development. In working out the program they will co-operate with all bodies that are actively engaged in advancing the best interests of the city.

On the club's program was a delightful report by Mrs. Thimman on "Some Sideglances of the Federation Gathering at San Luis Obispo," whose humorous angles on the big convalescence caused many a ripple to run through the audience.

Several reports were given by women who had attended neighboring "Reciprocity Days." Mrs. Johnson spoke of the one at Baldwin Park, Redondo and Zolnah; Mrs. Ervin of the one at Ramona; and Mrs. Stoner and Mrs. Wilson of the one at Covina, while Mrs. Hutcherson and Mrs. Yale reported on the meeting of the Women's auxiliary to the Postal Clerks in Los Angeles, and Mrs. Fisher reported on the Kate Tupper Galpin Shakespeare club of Los Angeles. Miss Jane Thompson talked on the Presidents' council, held recently at Santa Monica.

Retain Officers
It was decided at a recent meeting of the Burbank Rotary club to retain for another year the present group of officers, inasmuch as the chapter has practically been organized and these officers have just become familiar with their work.

The officers who will rule over their fellow Rotarians for the balance of the year are Mayor J. C. Crawford, president; "Sandy" Sanderson, secretary; and Bert Cross, sergeant-at-arms.

Dr. Fox, a prominent Pasadena Rotarian and pastor of the First Congregational church, told of the work of the Pasadena club in raising $4000 to build a lodge in the mountains, for the boys, on land donated by Mr. Huntington.

Dr. Fox also told of how a sum of $700 had been raised to help correct the defects of Pasadena's crippled children; and how still another sum had been raised to help needy boys through high school.

Harold Benner, of Glendale, who is Boy Scout executive for the district, was a visitor to the club.

Enter the Queen
May Day was celebrated Tuesday night, at the Thomas A. Edison school, with a lovely pageant in which Miss Marguerite Park was May Queen and Miss Irene Cook was Spring.

When she first appeared, Miss Park was not Queen of the May, but only Princess May. But this was because she was a little early on the scene. So she laid lightly down on the grassy mound and went to sleep—and as she slept, tiny snowflakes fell gently over her.

And when they were gone, then Spring truly came, and the little Blossoms. And then the brown Honey Bees came, and then came the gorgeous Butterflies, and then the beauteous Birds—and then May woke and found herself the Queen.

At this point the Springtime Hours came trooping in and Princess May was crowned Queen of the May.

The charming pageant was presented by the pupils of the Edison school.

Famous Lectures
Plans are under way to have the great actor, Frederick Warde, come to Burbank.

This was the import of an announcement made recently by F. S. Moore, high school principal. The time of Mr. Warde's coming will be about the middle of May, if plans carry, and his topic will be, "Fifty Years of Make Believe," a chronicle of his own rich and wonderful experiences on the stage.

Following Mr. Moore's announcement a short time ago that the services of Dr. Von Klein Smid, president of the University of Southern California, have been secured in Burbank on June 14, at the time of high school commencement exercises, it begins to appear that nothing is too good for Burbank.

PROFIT ON LOTS TO BE ASSURED

Suburban Heights Offering Good Investment, States Alfred Johnson

Two hundred and fifty dollars profit on a lot in one day is virtually what the latest offer amounts to, for buyers at the big wind-up sale to be held at Suburban Heights tomorrow and Sunday.

"The crowning effort of our big and successful sale of what are considered to be the choicest homestead offerings in the city of Glendale will amount to practically a $250 bonus to every one of today's and tomorrow's buyers," said Alfred Johnson, sales manager of the Suburban Realty Company.

"Every one of our many customers will be glad to hear that the improvements and building operations have so added to the value of their property in so short a time. Not one lot owned by this company will be available at the original low price after 5 o'clock next Monday."

"The small number of homesteads that we are offering at tomorrow's and Sunday's sale consist of some of the choicest locations in the whole tract. We have not disposed of all of the cream at our previous sales, but have retained what we considered to be a number of especially desirable lots in order that those who were unable to be present at former sales offerings might share in the big opportunities, equally with others."

"It is safe to say that the prices at which we are offering these attractive scenic homesteads, in the choicest residential district where many magnificent homes are already erected and occupied, are lower than any other similar location for many miles surrounding Los Angeles. Brand's Castle, which is directly opposite Suburban Heights, is one of the beauty spots of Southern California and has always been known as a beauty spot by sightseers and home-seekers. The fact that this wonderful piece of land has been subdivided into large, attractive homesteads has brought us enquiries and sales from many distant parts."

Big Demand For Lots
"Many visitors who intend to make Glendale their future home have been attracted to Suburban Heights, and these people will naturally have many friends who will want to be near them when they come to California. This naturally will cause a still bigger demand for the limited number of homesteads available, with a corresponding advance in price, enough to cause every man and woman in Glendale to purchase, even if only as a speculation. We all know that the demand is here and will be increased a hundredfold this year and next. The big activities in the history of Southern California will be during the year 1923, and there will be many fortunes made in real estate dealings by the small operators of today."

"As an instance of what will be the general rule of the future, one of our customers purchased what he considered to be an especially desirable homestead. A week later another prospective customer wanted the same lot to build on immediately and offered the first buyer $250 profit, which was accepted. Next Monday all lots owned by the Suburban Realty Company will be advanced $250, so the result is this: Our first customer made $250 profit in one week and our second customer made $250 profit in two weeks and is particularly satisfied with what he claims to be the choicest lot in the choicest locality in all California."

"Saturday and Sunday will see the greatest windup to any sale of homesteads ever held in Glendale. The special terms upon which we are offering the very best land in the best of locations will undoubtedly cause many who have been pondering to come to a point of decision. These people and many new customers who have notified us of their intentions to attend this sale should take practically everything that we have to offer off the market at an early hour Sunday. In fact, from past experience we do not anticipate having anything to offer after next Sunday except perhaps one or two lots that quantity buyers may be willing to let go to some disappointed buyer."

EAGLE ROCK

CENTRAL SCHOOL P-T. A. ELECTION

Mrs. J. C. Reiter Is Chosen Organization's President; Legion to Dance

Officers for the year were elected at the meeting of the Central Avenue Parent-Teacher association, Eagle Rock, held Wednesday afternoon, May 2, in the kindergarten room of the school, with the following results: Mrs. J. C. Reiter, president; Mrs. G. E. Arbogast, first vice-president; Mrs. A. H. Harrison, second vice-president; Mrs. A. G. Bailey, third vice-president; Mrs. M. Hutchins, secretary; and Mrs. A. Quarterman, treasurer.

Following the meeting's opening with a salute to the flag, Mrs. Reiter, as chairman of the Dollar Drive committee, reported receipts to date of $135.90.

A delightful program of three numbers was given by the glee club, after which the children who will take part in Saturday's pageant in Elysian park appeared. It was the consensus of opinion that the forthcoming graduation exercises would be held in the school auditorium.

In a comprehensive discussion of the corporal punishment question, the mothers again agreed that this was something that should be taken care of only in the home. Mrs. Emman spoke in a very interesting and broad-minded manner on the question. Refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Sampson.

American Legion Dance
The ballroom dance to be held at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse on East Colorado boulevard, Saturday night, May 5, under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary, is to be a brilliant affair. One of the special features, announces Mrs. A. R. Rose, president of the auxiliary, will be a May-pole dance, at 10 o'clock.

The Culver City orchestra will furnish the music, and there will be special surprise favors. Mrs. J. B. Squire is in charge of decorations and Miss Catherine Bessolo reigns supreme over the punch-bowl, while Miss Dorothy Squire, recently acclaimed May Queen of Eagle Rock, holds Royal Court over the entire affair.

Tonight at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse, a mass meeting will be held for the purpose of bringing together all those interested in the civic development of Eagle Rock. The affair is under the auspices of the Sunnyside club and G. C. Mattison, president of that body will preside.

An effort will be made to organ-

A fine program has been prepared by Mrs. F. M. Runge, who is in charge of the entertainment, a feature of which will be the singing of a group of Scotch songs by George T. Vallance, a brother-in-law of Sir Harry Lauder.

As officers will be elected at this meeting, those in charge are anxious to have a large turnout. Two significant affairs are scheduled for next Thursday, May 10, in Eagle Rock. One of them is a luncheon at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse, the other a meeting of the Thursday Morning club.

The program is in charge of Mrs. Kyle D. Palmer and the luncheon speaker will be Mrs. Estelle Lawton Lindsay, a writer. Her topic will be "The Community and the Newspapers."

The afternoon program will be under the direction of Miss Edna Cummins and the principal address will be delivered by Henry Christensen Warnack, author and newspaper man. His topic will be "The Conscience of the Newspaper."

Eagle Rock Personal
Miss Mary Barbara Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartley Taylor, of 311 West Colorado boulevard, will represent the Glendale Union high school in a tennis match between the two high schools.

Miss Taylor will go to Pomona in the company of her friend, Miss Doris Moyse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George U. Moyse, of 322 East Harvard street, Glendale. Mrs. Moyse will accompany the two girls. Mr. Moyse is principal of the Glendale Union High school. Mrs. F. H. Larchen, of 231 Campus drive has been very ill with a severe case of tonsillitis.

A Reward of Housework

It happened so suddenly Mary Alwin never could explain. She was sitting in a rowboat in the cove of the cottage, letting her fingers play in the water and wondering idly where she would be in a year. She must go to work, teach school like.

Someone shouted from the cottage porch and she looked up to the face of one of those late summer squalls which, in an incredibly short time pile up black clouds and whip the water with fury. Mary reached for the oars and one eluded her, sliding and rolling along the edge of the boat. As it fell she flung herself to seize it. The boat tipped and she was in the water.

Mary fought to reach the side of the overturned boat. Through her head ran many thoughts. There had been a fisherman near. Maybe he would save her. If she screamed she might drown. She kicked and splashed and felt she was not going to reach the boat.

Those on the shore saw the fisherman haul the girl into his boat, and cheered him when he started pulling vigorously to the shore. Mary had fainted, but this man picked her up as he would a child and carried her to the porch, where she was surrounded by excited friends. As he laid her down, Mary opened her eyes and smiled weakly at her rescuer.

When the others had become calm enough to think of the man who had risked his life, he was gone. Out in the lake, rowing in the face of the storm, he was making his way.

Next day Mary made an effort to thank the fisherman, but those who went across the lake for her were told he was a casual visitor who had come but for one day and was gone. Mary knew he was large and had blue eyes. The picture she got of him in that brief moment of consciousness stayed in her mind. She took it with her into Minnesota, where she taught school.

Had Mary Alwin met this fisherman it is possible he would have made no impression in her heart. Because she was filled with romance of college days and of the rescue and mysterious disappearance, she made of her rescuer a hero. Seven years later, a teacher in a small Minnesota town, he was still the man of her dreams.

"Willie Anderson," Mary put a stern note in her voice when she addressed her favorite pupil.

"How many times have I told you you must have your hair brushed when you come to school? And look, you have no necktie!" Willie blushed.

"My mother, she isn't very well," he said, producing an apple from his pocket. "Look what I brought you."

Willie's lapses became frequent, and he added tardiness to untidiness. Mary thought of the neat little lad he had been a few weeks before and determined to write a note to the mother to call at the close of school.

The secret of Willie's tardiness was Uncle Jim. While mother had been ill, Jim, her brother, took care of the house as well as the farm, dressed the boy as well as he could and then, after his custom, drove the lad to school.

At the corner of Main and State streets Willie always leaped from the machine and ran to school while Jim made the family purchases. It was at that corner he met the uncle for the ride home.

"You sent for Mrs. Anderson," Jim Ward said, as he stood like a schoolboy himself in the door of the building. Mary Alwin looked up into his face for the second time. This man was her hero!

"The boy's mother could not come, so I came myself," he explained. "Just what has the kid been doing?"

"Are you—are you Willie's father?" Mary asked, feeling sure that this meant an end to her dream.

"Shucks, no! If I were his dad I would know how to dress him. I'm an uncle who happened to take charge of the ranch while his mother is ill. She's almost well now and I think Willie will show signs of improvement."

They were in the schoolroom now and the light fell on Mary's face. The big man stared.

"Somewhere," he said, "I have seen you before." Then he smiled. "Many times I have seen you. You are—"

"The girl you pulled from the lake and who wanted to thank you ever since."

Jim looked at the earnest girl admiringly. "To think I sneaked off because I didn't wish you to thank me!"

It was all of three weeks before Mary told him how she had loved him all the time.

PICTORIAL REVIEW 1532 1246

1495 Pictorial Review

Prints for Dressing Sacks
Simplicity has divers ways of expressing itself, but it is always the most valuable asset of the mode. Prints, so fashionable for frocks and blouses, are also in demand for more intimate garments. This dressing sack in printed voile is trimmed with wool crepe in plain color. The neck is finished with a round, lace-edged collar, though the fronts of the sack may be turned back in V shape, if preferred. Medium size requires 2 1/2 yards 36-inch figured and 1/2 yard plain material.

Pictorial Review Dressing Sack
No. 1532. Sizes, 34 to 52 inches bust. Price, 25 cents. Combination Bloomers-Petticoat No. 1246. Sizes, 26 to 38 inches waist. Price, 30 cents.

Of Silken Daintiness
To the woman unflinchingly interested in underthings is this combination recommended. It consists of a camisole with straight upper edge and step-in drawers. A slight fullness is provided at the sides by slashing the combination in from the underarm edges and gathering the lower edges. Hemstitching, filet lace and ribbon straps are details that contribute much to the daintiness of the model, for which 2 yards of rayon silk or crepe de chine are required. Batiste, linen, nainsook, longcloth, etc., are also practical for the combination.

Enemas and Irrigations
Dear Mammams:
Sometimes it is necessary to empty babies' bowels quickly and in that case an enema can be given. But, mammams, enemas should not be given daily, except under the direction of your physician, for we soon get in the habit of depending upon them, and then our little bowels will not work normally.

Irrigation of the Bowels
Washing out the bowels once a day is a very helpful thing to do in cases of diarrhea, mammams. It should not be done often, however, unless your physician orders it, for it may be irritating rather than helpful.

Doctor has prepared careful directions for giving enemas and irrigations, and you may have them

BEAUTY CHATS

MANICURE SCISSORS
One of the most useful implements invented is the little pair of manicure scissors which every woman possesses. It's much too useful, for it tempts one to keep the edges of the nails smooth by cutting away the little pieces of skin that collect and grow down over the nail. It's so much easier to cut off this skin than to keep it pressed back gently into place, for it is cut smoothly the nails will look well for about a week and need not be touched, whereas, the orangewood stick must be used once or twice a day to keep them nice looking otherwise.

The various cuticle removers on the market are a boon to the woman who cannot afford the time or expense of a professional manicurist. These remove the dead skin from the nail and in most cases give a smooth finish without any further trouble. However, great care must be taken, for these, which are only diluted oxalic acid, are very drying, and in the end will make this tender skin rough and dry. Whenever a cuticle remover is used, the fingers should be scrubbed thoroughly with warm water, soap and a small brush after the dead skin has been scraped away. Then a little cream should be rubbed thoroughly into the nails and around them and allowed to stay on several minutes.

There are times, of course, when manicure scissors must be used, even the cuticle remover will leave jagged ends and it will never get out the odd bits of skin that collect on each side of the nail in close corners where the nail grows out of the flesh. But do not overdo the manicure scissors habit. Cuticle, cut too often, will grow tough and unsightly.

The chief thing to remember in taking care of the nails is to feed them well with oil or cold cream and to push back the cuticle each time after the hands are washed.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

PARENTS AND CHILDREN
How few people enjoy their children. Get pleasure out of them, I mean.

Not happiness. For, of course, everyone knows that the deepest happiness as well as the deepest sorrow in the world comes from human relationships. Seeing the love shine out of someone's eyes, knowing that someone loves you and having your heart swell with love for someone else are two of the rock bottom happinesses in human experience. Especially the second. And of all the loves none is more powerful than the love of children.

Happiness Derived From Children
Therefore there is no question but what most people get a great deal of happiness out of their children.

But when I said how few people enjoy their children, I meant how few people get a great deal of pleasure out of them.

Think of some mother who does really enjoy her children, who finds it fun to play with them, who enjoys their development, who can have as good a time with them as with grown-ups, and contrast her with the average mother and you will realize how rare she is, compared to the mother who regards her children as her job and finds most of her amusement in the company of grown-ups. And the father who enjoys his children is even more rare.

Mothers Too Anxious to Enjoy Them
Many mothers are too anxious about their children to enjoy them. They can never look at them until he is getting whole milk. At thirteen months a baby should also be having pureed green vegetables, especially spinach, for its iron; fruit juices, cereals, zwieback, baked potato, a little butter, and egg yolks or whole eggs if they agree.

The principle of feeding children depends upon giving them new food in very small amounts, not more than a teaspoonful and increasing not more than half a teaspoonful a day.

Mrs. Z.—The average at which the fontanel is closed is about eighteen months. Sometimes a month or two younger than this.

Mrs. N.—No, we do not advise contrivances to teach children to walk. As soon as children's muscles and bones are strong enough, they are more than willing to try to walk themselves.

except with an apprehensive eye that seems to fear that the child is about to behave improperly or question if it is well.

Other mothers lack the child spirit, the ability to look at things from the child's point of view, which is necessary in order to enjoy a child's companionship.

Still other mothers don't like children. Do not be shocked. I know they love their own. But loving is not liking. They don't like children as a distinct species—which children most emphatically are—and if they didn't have children of their own, would very likely have been the kind of women who dislike all children.

Bridge of Family Tendency
Of course it is inevitable that the two generations should have different pleasures and different points of view, but with the bridge of family tenderness to help them across to each other, I think could probably find more enjoyment of each other if they nately sought that source of joyment.

I think there is a movement way. A girl wrote me the day of a mother and daughter theater party. Fine for her. And my small nephew is thr at the prospect of a father scout like which is to place in the near future.

The mother and father who bring up a family of children inevitably must give some of the outside pleasures reasons both of economy and home demands. Blessed is parent who can find some pleasure at home with the ba

If I were to ask every one of my readers, face to face, the question, "What fancy work do you do?" I have no doubt that a good percentage of them would reply: "Fancy work? My fancy work is mending my husband's socks! Or letting down my little girl's dresses! I have no time for unnecessary handiwork! I'm simply rushed to death every minute."

And I know that this is true. Few busy housekeepers have time for "pretty" work. It is hard to find time to knit, crochet, embroider, make rag rugs or sew on a new table runner or pillow top.

Yet often the busiest housekeepers are the very ones who need this moment of relaxation from their sterner duties. A half hour, sewing on a new bureau scarf or appliqued bedspread, would give their taut nerves a rest and would send them back to their cooking and dish washing and cleaning with renewed vigor.

Then, there is another side to fancy work—the social side. I do not mean that word in the fashionable sense; I mean it in the neighborly sense. If we do any kind of fancy work, other women who do fancy work are drawn to us. The common interest welds acquaintanceship into friendship. I know of an instance of this truth right among my own friends:

Mrs. X had lived in a community for five years without making a real friend. Last summer she suddenly became interested in crocheting. She bought a book of directions and began making herself a sweater. Instantly Mrs. Z, who lived across the street, was interested. Mrs. Z, inquired at once about the stitch she was using, the nature of the garment, and the book of directions. A week later Mrs. Z, and Mrs. X, formed the habit of crocheting together whenever they could snatch a few moments from their work. Then other women on the street joined them with their handiwork. And by the end of the summer they had practically a fancy work club.

We women, in our anxiety to be thorough housekeepers, sometimes lose sight of the fact that we have a right to a little social life, as well as our daughters and our sons and the other members of our family. Not necessarily "social life" which embraces card parties and afternoon teas; but just the

Jilted Swains Form 'Green Pea' Society

BERKELEY, Cal., May 4.—And now comes the "Royal and Mystic Order of the Green Peas." The latest secret society has been formed on the University of California campus by discarded fiancées.

Its object, according to George Smith, its president, is to fight the wiles of cruel co-eds who play up to men students only to cast them aside.

The constitution of the order defines a "Green Pea" as "one who has had a hard fall, who has suffered at the hands of woman, a man who has been jilted in love."

The constitution provides also that the "greenest of the Green Peas" shall automatically become president.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; to add to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advertisement.

MONTH'S LUMBER LOSS TEN MILLION

Twenty Thousand Forest Fires in April Cause of Congress Probe

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, May 4.—Twenty thousand forest fires, which raged across a score of states, destroyed $10,000,000 worth of standing timber in the past month, it was announced by Senator McNary, Republican of Oregon, chairman of the senate reforestation committee.

McNary declared government reports showed all the fires were caused by human carelessness. In many communities, he said, the destruction of forests would have a serious effect on water supplies during the coming summer.

As a result of the widespread fires this spring, McNary announced he would ask the next congress to appropriate $1,500,000 as a special fund to provide federal patrols. The present appropriation is only $400,000.

Start Inspection
The senate committee will make an immediate inspection tour of forest conditions in the middle west to view some of the forest fire losses at first hand. The committee will leave Washington next Sunday for a six-day trip, visiting Detroit on May 7; Bay City, Mich., May 8; Grand Rapids, Mich., May 9; Chicago and vicinity May 10; Madison, Wis., May 11; Duluth May 11, and Cloquet, Minn., May 12.

The continued loss of forests by carelessness will result ultimately in the government spending large sums for forest patrols, McNary said. "With timber selling at $20 per thousand feet, it is an urgent necessity to do something to conserve forest resources."

"This money, however, will be spent in assisting states to patrol their own forests. It is absolutely necessary that the state governments take a real interest in this problem."

Missouri Man, Twice Wedded, Father of 22

PERRYVILLE, Mo., May 4.—"It's a girl," came a feminine voice from another room as August Kiefer paced the floor at his home here.

Kiefer's brows knitted as he scratched his head calculating. "That makes twenty-two," he mused.

Kiefer was married before and had four children from that union. He has been blessed with 18 more by his second marriage, making 22 in the chorus that calls him "papa." Mrs. Kiefer is 41 years old.

FACULTY FORBIDS CO-EDS' KNEES

Maidens Told Not to Act in College Burlesque Production

By CHESTER B. BAHN.
For International News Service
SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 4.—Twinkling legs and dimpled knees of Syracuse University's co-eds may be perfectly permissible in class room and gym, and on the campus, but never, never, can they be subjected to the opera glasses of "bald headed" row.

Such is the formal decree of the university authorities. And, as a result, there will be no musical comedy production by the varsity society Tambourine and Bones this Spring.

Co-eds cannot appear in T. and B. shows, rules the faculty and, as a result, the university's oldest dramatic society may give up the ghost, it is said.

Petitions Fail
Five separate petitions made by the most influential students on the campus, including Charles Aufderhar, president of the Tambourine and Bones and of the Interfraternity Conference, failed to soften the decree. "Co-eds shall not take part in the burlesque shows." During the war the co-eds took part in three productions which proved to be most successful.

Members of the faculty, shocked at what they term "a vulgar exhibition," put on the lid. Then the members of the society voted "No co-eds, no show," and all plans for this year's show have been cancelled.

The girls themselves are just as anxious to take part as the men are to have them. "An outrage," they term it, but the powers that be have no intention of changing the ruling, according to Vice-Cancellor William P. Graham.

Many Ulster Irish Coming to America

BELFAST, May 4.—Ulster Irishmen are emigrating to the United States in large numbers. For the first three months in the present year there were 1,612 American passports issued in Belfast, as compared with 552 in the corresponding months in 1922.

The American Consulate states that the emigrants are of a better type this year than ever before and include many skilled workmen.

Use of the word we instead of I by sovereigns began with King John in 1199 and the idea was quickly adopted by the Emperor of Germany and King of France.

STABILIZER AIDS FLYERS, CLAIM

Secret Mechanism Proves a Big Help to Airplane, Is Announcement

By CHARLES A. SMITH
For International News Service
LONDON, May 4.—After a life work of research and experiment, the efforts of the famous Austrian savant, Professor Raimond Nimfuhr, to achieve automatic stability in aeroplanes, have been crowned with success.

He has now perfected a secret mechanism which is likened to the antennae of insects, and it now only requires certain simplifications in operation to be brought into everyday use. Already in its tests it has exceeded all expectations.

It is described as a "sensory organ," and is shielded from view in a smooth rounded metal chamber, which projects on a hollow tube in front of the aircraft when in flight.

Uncanny is the only description one can apply to the way in which this "brain" will correct an error of the pilot. Should he, by any chance, cause his craft to "stall," or come practically to a standstill in the air, with the peril of a plunge, the "brain" promptly assumes control, and tilting the bow a little downward, sends the machine on a glide which immediately restores the lift of its wings.

Turns Fluctuations
Any fluctuations in the air currents are instantly detected by the new device, which automatically stabilizes the controlling planes so that the machine remains in steady flight, no matter what disturbances may be encountered.

Not only, declared the professor, can great air liners be so stabilized by their automatic "brains," but his invention has now brought the production of small "Fords" into the realms of possibility. Such machines, he claims, fitted with the new device, will be practically fool proof.

Horses Growing Fewer Declare U. S. Reports

WASHINGTON, May 4.—"Old Dobbin's" ranks are steadily diminishing. Latest governmental figures show an eleven per cent decrease in the last decade in the number of horses in the world.

The United States ranks first with 20,559,000. Russia is second with 18,507,000. This despite the fact that these countries registered the greatest declines in the number of horses since 1913. There are today 103,550,000 horses in the world, whereas before the war there were 116,500,000.

Spanish Author Sees More Wars in Future

MENTONE, May 4.—The Four Horsemen will ride again, scattering war, destruction and ruin in their wake, according to Vicente Blasco Ibanez, famous Spanish novelist, in an interview here.

Senator Ibanez foresees an almost continuous state of conflict for Europe and envisages a mighty struggle within a decade unless the people's hearts change.

"I am most pessimistic," he asserted. "I do not believe there is any solution of the European problem. The evil is too deep. It is in the hearts of the people. They are full of hatreds and bitterness. Politicians are thinking in terms of frontiers, territory, prestige and trade. We shall never have peace as long as that state of mind exists. The great war only heightened the feeling and made it more bitter."

"I think we shall have other wars—many of them. There are all the possibilities. Look at Russia. Look at Germany. Look at France. Look at England."

"The present situation is only a phase of the whole question. Remember, literature is now international, science is international, trade is international, many things are international. While politics which is the most important of all in the lives of the peoples of the nations, is still narrow and nationalistic."

"I see no hope of peace until these changes, and there is a little spirit of fraternity in the hearts of men," he added, "but I believe that peace will eventually come."

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—Advertisement.

TODAY—Edna Lee Booker, Shanghai, writes of the invasion on a large scale of American motion pictures in China.

TOMORROW—Douglas G. Tinsley, Kansas City, tells of the $25,000,000 to be spent on new highways in that state.

By EDNA LEE BOOKER
For International News Service

SHANGHAI, May 4. — Two thousand motion pictures will be exhibited throughout China during the next three years by the Peacock Film Company, which is a subsidiary of the $10,000,000 corporation, the China Enterprises, which was organized by wealthy and influential American and Chinese groups recently.

Frank Chamberlain, formerly associated with the Famous Players Company, will arrive in Shanghai shortly for the purpose of opening local offices. He is bringing with him a large consignment of films and will begin distribution to various parts of China.

Until the company is well established the management plans to engage simply in film distribution. Eventually, however, pictures will be produced for export to America and for release to the 2,000 theatres which the promoters hope to establish in some 2,000 cities.

An educational campaign will be launched by the company, and in this connection an innovation, the "daylight screen" on which pictures may be shown in the daytime, is being brought.

The company plans to introduce throughout China films which will interpret Western life, business, manufacturers and government methods. Conversely, when film production is begun here, pictures truly representative of Chinese life will be sent to the Occident.

The great commercial undertaking is backed in America by the Du Pont, the Brady and Duke interests and in China, by millionaire Chinese bankers and merchants. Besides the Peacock Film Company, another subsidiary organization—the Universal Picture Corporation—has been formed.

This company will enter into the silk and cotton business on a large scale.

Although there are some 60,000 cases tried in the Mixed Court, in Shanghai, every year one of the saddest and most unusual came up for hearing recently.

With the approach of Summer a pretty young Chinese girl-wife will become a mother in the grim confines of the Lungwa prison, and 100 days after the birth of the baby she will be taken into the death chamber and strangled.

The girl, who is to be the mother and then must die, is in her early teens, and her name appears on the court records as Wong Dzang-sz.

She is the central figure in a sordid tragedy. One night not long ago the mutilated body of the husband of the pretty girl was found in an alley stabbed in a score of places. Police inquiry swiftly disclosed that he had been murdered, seemingly with his wife's knowledge and consent, by two brothers. One of the brothers, who had been a private ricksha boy in the home of the girl, was condemned to death, also.

When the trial of the girl took place a plea was made for her freedom because she was shortly to become a mother. But, according to Chinese law—which strangely enough is sanctioned in the tenets of the law of both America and Great Britain—"an expectant mother convicted of capital offense shall be held prisoner until the time of the birth of her child and then for an additional 100 days, after which the penalty of the court shall be executed."

As the sentence of death was read by the Chinese magistrate the trembling, white-faced girl, with frightened, terrified dark eyes fainting in the dock.

The radio has arrived in Shanghai, and in its wake comes the radio cocktail.

Al Israel, manager of the Del Monte Cafe, which is famous for its beautiful Russian ballet dancers, has invented the concoction.

The recipe—although American radio fans have put such things as cocktail recipes far behind them—is as follows: Gin, 2-3; Italian vermouth, 1-3; jigger orange liqueur, 1/2.

According to Israel, the radio cocktail broadcasts perfectly and has a wonderful modulation, with just the proper kick.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST STALLING

Don't Suddenly Overload the Slowed-Down Engine
EVEN THOUGH one has a reliable self-starter, the stalling of the engine is annoying and, in the case of a hand cranked car, it is exasperating. When an engine stalls in heavy traffic, it is subject to the danger of a rear-end collision, the operator is harassed, and the following are a few suggestions towards that end: The stalling of vehicle engines on railroad tracks has been the cause of many serious accidents. Every motorist should take special precautions against this unpleasant happening, especially under the above named conditions, and the following are a few suggestions towards that end: The use of a very lean mixture makes an engine particularly susceptible to stalling, when throttled very closely and therefore the dash adjustment may judiciously be set slightly richer than normal, when a car is in "close quarters". Too low an idling speed should not be attempted, as the engine then possesses but slight stored energy and is easily "killed," so it is good policy to open the hand throttle a little and increase the minimum speed. Some magneto on old cars, fail to spark reliably at very low speeds and this calls for the maintenance of a brisk idling speed. Attempting to "pick up" the speed of a greatly slowed down car, without changing to a lower gear, is perhaps the most common cause of engine stalling. This is brought about by slipping the clutch which, in itself, is a bad practice, and all too often the engine is brought to an unintentional stop. Good judgment demands that when a car becomes greatly slowed down in traffic, second should at once be engaged, not only as a safeguard against stalling, but in order that the utmost accelerative power shall be available, when the time comes to increase speed. When a car has to be almost stopped it is best to engage low speed to "pick up" on. The action of the clutch has much to do with accidental engine stops. If it engages gently, it makes such occurrences unlikely, but if it acts harshly and grabs—especially if the operator is careless—it encourages them. Becoming bewildered or "frustrated" and jamming on the brakes, before releasing the clutch or engaging the clutch, without speeding the engine are common actions that naturally result in stalling.

CARING FOR THE HORN

W. S. asks: Do electric horns require any care? Mine has worked rather well, and I am sure it seems not to start sounding instantly, when I press the button.

Answer: Assuming yours to be a horn of the motor type, it should occasionally have the commutator wiped clean, with a small piece of cloth, a drop or two of very thin engine oil supplied to the bearings of the armature shaft and a little vaseline applied to the end of the shaft, where it engages the button on the center of the diaphragm. As a rule, the casing has to be removed in order to reach these parts. The brushes should bear firmly upon the commutator and all electrical connections, including those at the button, should be tight and clean.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S WIRELESS

"Nurse Jane, are you going out today?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his muskrat lady housekeeper one morning.

"Why, yes, Wiggily, I expect to go over and call on Mrs. Wibblewobble, the lady duck," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Is there anything you would like me to get you?" she asked.

"Thank you, no, but when are you going?" asked Uncle Wiggily, and it appeared to Nurse Jane that he was rather anxious like and eager.

"Oh, I'll be going soon," spoke the muskrat lady. And as she started away from the hollow stump bungalow she said to herself: "I wonder why Uncle Wiggily was so anxious to have me go out if he didn't want me to bring him anything? He's up to some mischief, or trick, I'm sure. I wonder what it is?"

Ah! If she had only known! For no sooner was Nurse Jane out than the bunny rabbit gentleman darted to a closet, and from it he took some wires, electric batteries and other funny little jiggers that he had secretly brought home from time to time, hiding them in the dark place.

"Now for my wireless!" exclaimed the bunny rabbit.

There you have the secret. Uncle Wiggily was going to put up a new wireless radio set so he and Nurse Jane could listen to bedtime stories themselves, instead of always taking part in them.

"I ought to be able to get San Francisco and Los Angeles on this hookup, to say nothing of Davenport, Ia., and WIZ from the Waldorf-Astoria," said the bunny rabbit gentleman to himself as he fiddled around with the wires and let the variometer play tag with the grid leak.

After some little work Uncle Wiggily had his wireless set up, and, putting the telephone receiver over his ears, he began to listen in. At first he heard nothing, but after turning the handles and knobs, he caught the sound of a faint buzzing, and a far-off voice said:

"This is station A.B.C.D.E.F.G. located at Wickettunk, Old York. Our best selection—And then it sounded as if a lot of tin pans were sliding down the banister railing in the cellar and trying to play tag with the coal bin.

"Something wrong here," spoke Uncle Wiggily, fiddling the ground wire and putting a bit of stickum plaster over the secondary. "But I'll try another hook-up and see what that does."

Well, the bunny rabbit gentleman was working away to get his wireless perfect, so Nurse Jane could enjoy it when she came home, and all of a sudden there was a sound at the kitchen door. Uncle Wiggily did not hear it, for he had the telephone receivers over his ears. But the noise continued. It was a scratching-scratching sound, and it was made by the toe nails of the Skillery Scallery Alligator as he crept over the kitchen oil cloth. For the Alligator had sneaked into the hollow stump bungalow, intending to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears.

"Oh, the hunters are after me! Hunters with guns are after me! I'd better run!" howled the 'Gator, and away he ran, much frightened, and so he didn't nibble the bunny's ears after all.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "The wireless is certainly wonderful!" Then he got it ready for Nurse Jane, who liked it very much. And if the automobile doesn't turn over on its back and twirl its wheels around to make the baby laugh, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the fly paper.

MULCT PUBLIC ON FAKE HERO PLEA

Organizations and Magazines Exploit Disabled Veterans for Profit

By J. L. MEDDOFF
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, May 4.—A new kind of post-war profiteer who capitalizes on the injuries of disabled former service men has sprung up all over the country to prey upon the pocketbooks of gullible persons endowed with more sympathy than practical business sense, according to C. Hamilton Cook, of Buffalo, N. Y., national commander of Disabled American veterans.

Utterly without scruples, this profiteer operating through so-called organizations and spurious publications, admits the American public each year of thousands of dollars under the pretense that the money will go to aid permanently disabled veterans, Cook declared.

Probe is instituted
The Disabled American Veterans recently conducted a nationwide investigation which disclosed numerous instances of such practices the country over, Cook said. He placed considerable data and evidence purporting to substantiate his charges before officials of the justice and post office departments for governmental action against the fraud perpetrators.

"The public generally is annually being fleeced of vast sums of money under the guise of relief for crippled former service men," Cook charged. "We have listed the government's aid and that of two extensive business associations to prosecute every spurious organization and publication against which we can obtain sufficient evidence."

"During the Christmas holidays," Cook continued, "the country was circled by an alleged organization that is not even recognized by the Veterans' Bureau, and several thousand dollars were gathered in from people who thought they were aiding the war's disabled."

"Cross" is Pure Fake
"Later, an agent of a so-called association of the disabled returned from Europe exhibiting a cross he declared he picked up from the grave of an unknown American soldier. The war department has officially notified us that there have not even been in existence any such legitimate markings."

Since the Disabled American Veterans undertook to expose such frauds, Cook said, more than 100 persons have been arrested in the middle and far west, charged with soliciting for a magazine purporting to be a disabled veterans' publication.

"Now we have brought the matter squarely up to the department of justice and the post office department," Cook said. "Already the investigating agents of these two federal offices have gathered considerable evidence, and we hope that these organizations and publications will soon be entirely out of existence through the jailing of their officers and editors."

Budget Amendment to Help U. S. C. Branch

SACRAMENTO, May 4.—By unanimous consent of the senate, the finance committee has brought in a further amendment to the administration budget bill providing $1,450,000 for the Southern branch at Los Angeles of the University of California.

The amendment is the same as that offered several days ago in the assembly by Assemblyman Otto Emme of Los Angeles and that most of the other Los Angeles members declined to vote for on the ground that it was contrary to administration policy.

RUHR INVASION INJURES SWISS

Many Trains Canceled Since German Territory Was Occupied by France

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service
BASEL, Switzerland, May 4.—Occupation of the Ruhr by the French has ruined Switzerland's tourist traffic.

That's the plaint of the poor Swiss hotel managers who stand in the deserted lobbies of their establishments and relate their tales of woe to anyone and everyone who is willing to listen.

Next to officering a detachment of Switzerland's superb universal army managing a hotel full of tourists is the profession dearest to the heart of every native of this mountainous country. And when that business goes "to the hum" the whole country suffers.

Many Trains Canceled

The Ruhr occupation resulted in the cancellation of dozens of through express trains which used to bring tourists to Switzerland from Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Holland. On account of this disruption of traffic these people now either stay at home or leave Switzerland out of their itinerary. Basel has always been known as the northern gateway of Switzerland. Before the Ruhr occupation it was one of the biggest railroad centers in Europe. Cancellation of through trains from Brussels, Ostend, Berlin and Frankfurt has taken away much of its prestige.

Service is still being maintained to these points, but it is very uncertain, slow and irregular. A train leaving Basel at 10 o'clock in the morning formerly arrived in Frankfurt, Germany, at 5:30 in the evening. The same train, rerouted by the Germans, now arrives in Frankfurt at 10 o'clock in the evening.

Stop-over Point
Basel is not one of Switzerland's favorite resorts, but the city's few first-class hotels used to do a thriving business with tourists who stopped over at least one night on their way in or out of the country.

The Scandinavians and the Hollanders formed a large part of this class, the Americans and English running on through on half-hour train connections. Now, with the Scandinavians and the Hollanders missing, hotel managers have to be satisfied if they fill thirty or forty of their 300 to 400 rooms nightly.

Love Triangle Spans Wide Atlantic Wastes

BELFAST, Ireland, May 4.—An "eternal triangle" with two of its "legs" in Ireland and the other in America, was revealed in a Ballymoney court recently when the divorce suit of Mrs. Marion Craig against Thomas Craig was tried.

Mrs. Craig charged her husband with technical desertion, claiming that his cruel treatment of her had forced her to leave him. Mrs. Craig denied the charges, but Mrs. Craig won a decree, with alimony.

Mrs. Craig introduced in evidence several "Dearest Tommie" letters which, she alleged, had been written to her husband by a Mrs. Thompson, from Halesdon, New York. The letters were signed "Jeanie," and Craig admitted their receipt.

In one of the letters "Jeanie" wrote: "Tommie, dearest, I'd give the world if tonight I could go home to you. I don't mean to Ireland, but if we had a little home somewhere where I am so busy at times struggling on, with no one to lean on and to help me bear the burden. But, Tommie, no one can take your place."

At another time she wrote: "I grow weary of waiting, Tommie. It is awful to go on loving someone without the assurance of a happy ending. Tommie, what are you going to do? Tell me, that I may make some plans if you are coming this fall. My thoughts and dreams are of you always, and I long for the reality which seems ever to evade my grasp."

Tract societies originated in the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, which was founded in London in 1698.

WEST OPPOSING CONSOLIDATION

Few Great Systems Not Fair To Community at Large, It Is Declared

By DOUGLAS G. TINSLEY
For International News Service
KANSAS CITY, Kan., May 4.—Proposed consolidation of the railroads of the United States into a few great systems with its consequent elimination of individual carriers as separate entities will wipe from the map as commercial and transportation capitals the cities of Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul, and will work other hardships and unfairness to the entire west, according to Clyde M. Reed, chairman of the Kansas Public Utilities Commission.

Branding the proposed consolidation as manifestly unfair to the southwest, he declared that the terminal advantages enjoyed by the cities mentioned will go to Chicago and the great market facilities built up in those cities would be lost and the country served by them would be placed from 500 to 1,000 miles farther away from its central market point.

"The fundamental idea contained in the plan proposed for consolidation of western railroads is to hinge transportation on Chicago," he said. "Instead of St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Paul and Minneapolis continuing to be the transportation and commercial capitals of the southwest, transportation systems now terminating at the Mississippi and Missouri rivers would be projected forward to a Chicago basis, removing the seat of control to the transportation facilities of these great regional empires substantially 500 miles farther away."

Too Much Centralization
"There is too much centralization of transportation and industry for the good of the country. There should be decentralization instead. The great cities and congested industrial sections contain a greater menace to the development of our country than would a wider diffusion of population, wealth and industry. Besides limiting competition as between rail carriers, the centering of all control of the transportation systems at one point would, in my judgment, have an unwholesome effect."

The Interstate Commerce Commission employed Professor W. Z. Ripley of Harvard University to make a comprehensive analysis and report upon that part of the Esch-Cummings act which dealt with consolidations.

"Professor Ripley said: 'The price paid (that is for the extension of the railroads into Chicago) is a heavy one; for the open market for the choice of routing at the Missouri river gateway and at the Twin Cities is found to be restricted by the provisions of these corporately unified through routes. Not only St. Louis but Kansas City also, in a way, are primary markets; whereas on the southeastern neither Louisville nor Evansville may be said to jeopardize the supremacy of Chicago. But Chicago and St. Louis particularly are keen rivals for business and it will contribute to national development that they should continue to be so. Such being the case, it will unquestionably contribute to holding the Chicago market on a parity with those of the Missouri river cities if the railroads of this country operate their own trains into Chicago and have a substantial investment to support. Through billing and quick delivery, with a number of other favoring concomitants, would be much more likely to prevail than if Chicago were compelled to do business in Oklahoma, Kansas or Texas, both at a longer range and without distinct railroad friends at court.'

Called "Disaster for West"
"I do not think there is any considerable difference of opinion among students of the situation that the removal of the transportation capitals half a thousand miles from their present location would be a disaster to the western regions. I think this is particularly so to the southwestern region. We have built up great markets for the products of these regions."

"To weaken these markets would be to weaken development of the southwest. This is not to say that the transportation situation is ideal as it stands. All of us know better than that. I have had part in the discussion of differences in opinion as between interior distributing centers and the cities on the two rivers, Wichita and Oklahoma City, Topeka and Joplin and other important cities of the west and southwest may fairly complain of some phases of the present situation, but I would much rather deal with the present conditions in an effort to remedy such complaints as the interior cities have than to throw the seat of adjustment far beyond the natural limits of our own territory."

"For these reasons I am unqualifiedly opposed to the further centralization of the transportation interests of the country which would more than ever favor industrial development in regions more remote from us."

KARR PRESIDENT OF ROTARY CLUB

New Head Assumes Office Amid Warm Plaudits Of Club Members

George B. Karr took up the gavel as president of the Glendale Rotary club, at yesterday's luncheon meeting held in the Citizens' building auditorium. In turning over the honors and duties of the office to his successor, Roy L. Kent, retiring president, made an impressive talk that was a resume of the club's progress and activities during his tenure, pointing out that membership had grown from twenty-three to thirty-five and that the club had made a fine showing locally and internationally, backing up many worthy civic and municipal movements and registering 100 per cent strong at more than one district conference.

Mr. Kent thanked the members individually and the club as a body for the fine spirit of co-operation shown at all times. Pausing for a moment before relinquishing office, he paid an especial tribute to the following members for their vital and wholehearted help in making last Friday's "Loyalty Parade" of 1250 boys the outstanding success it was—Owen C. Emery, chairman of committees; George B. Karr, chairman of the parade and William A. Howe, chairman of entertainment. The gavel was also tendered to Mr. Karr, who received it with a brief address that was chiefly a pledge of service and a feeling of pride that the club had seen fit to place such confidence in him.

A delegation of seven members of the newly organized Burbank club were present in Mr. Karr's honor, and had placed before his seat a beautiful bouquet of roses. To this delegation, representing one-third of the Burbank club, Mr. Karr expressed his particular gratitude, stating that the occasion was one he would never forget. "The best things that have come to me have come through Rotary," said Mr. Karr. "And the best things that have come to me have come in the small town rather than in the great city. I believe that a man gets more out of Rotary and more out of life in a small town than in a great city."

Speaking of the attitude toward Parsons, Kansas, his former home and Rotary affiliation point, he said that since living in this city he had never once been homesick, due to the feelings of warmth and friendship engendered at the Rotary club luncheons. "Not that we love Parsons less but Glendale more," was his paraphrase explanation of his attitude.

The new president then outlined briefly some of the ideas that it will be the aim of the Glendale Rotary club to carry out in the coming months, among them a development of the individual angle. "For a chain is known to be no stronger than its weakest link," he said.

Names New Officers
Mr. Karr named the following as the official body of the club, as constituted from now on—Roy L. Kent, past president; George B. Karr, president; J. Herbert Smith, vice-president; R. E. Olin, secretary; J. I. Wernette, treasurer; and Rev. Ernest E. Ford, William Hunter and W. E. Hewitt, directors.

"I appreciate this opportunity you have given me to do my best for you," concluded Mr. Karr, in accepting the guiding reins of the Glendale Rotary club for the coming year.

Mayor J. C. Crawford, of Burbank, spoke briefly, telling Mr. Karr how happy they were to be present on the occasion of his official taking over of the duties of president.

Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, then announced a meeting at the Wilson avenue school, at 7:30 o'clock on the night of May 10, for the purpose of planning a Decoration Day celebration, and urged that Rotary representatives be present.

The following were the seven delegates from the Burbank chapter present at yesterday's luncheon—Mayor J. C. Crawford, A. C. Fillbach, W. S. Sandison, F. C. Miller, Edward Butterfield, D. B. Cummings and Leo J. Mulvoy. In addition, the Los Angeles chapter was represented by Charles E. Carver, Edward McGinn, Edward S. Merrill and C. S. Finley.

Short and Ugly Word Is Hurlled in Senate

SACRAMENTO, May 4.—Senator J. M. Inman of Sacramento, sponsor of the anti-Japanese fishing bill, defeated in the upper house two weeks ago, branded Senator E. A. Hurley, Oakland member, a "deliberate liar" and challenged the latter to a personal encounter on the floor of the senate yesterday. Inman offered to have the "meeting" take place in the corridors or any other place Hurley might choose. Hurley accepted the challenge but President C. C. Young insisted that the business of the senate proceed without further interruptions.

The five great salt-water bodies of this earth approximate a total area of 140,000,000 square miles, with an average depth of two and one-third miles.

COMMENT That's All

Impressed With Southland Poor Little Rich Girl Care Only For Spenders Building Program Ahead

By Gil A. Cowan

SOUTHERN California—the envy of the world! How glorious it is to call this favored section home.

And to think of the many, many people who would live here if they could.

An English lord and his lady honeymooning not so many miles from here could wish that they could take a bit of this paradise home with them.

They are seeing California in the spring of the year; the drab season, so to speak. Yet they are so impressed with the beauty of it all they can find no words sufficient of expression.

Pity the poor kings and queens and dukes and duchesses and lords and ladies who must live within the castle walls; who must remain in their home land to maintain title and rank.

Much rather would we be residents of Southern California, out in the west at its best, than have the scepter of a kingdom thrust upon us by our forebears. For California is the happyland—and you can't get away from it, once it has entwined your heart in the bosom of its hills.

Only recently I met a poor little rich girl who is happily married to the man of her choice. It is a long, long story of love, such as you see in the Sunday supplements sometimes. But it is unusual.

"I thought I only needed to bring Jack home to father and it would be all right," she plaintively related the story. "I thought I was free to marry whom I pleased. But no, I never knew my father to swear so. His heart seemed turned to stone. And, instead of being in the beautiful garden, I was an outcast, looking at the castle of childhood from the barren waste of life's grim realities."

"So we came west, Jack had the flu. I have pawned the last of my rings. They are not for the wife of a poor man. And I have all that one needs, enough to eat, a place to sleep, for all my father's fortune."

"Let me tell you something, too. Rich girls are not snobs. As I look back over my experiences in the small towns and the cities the snobs are those who acquire wealth and power after having had nothing in the heyday of their youth."

"When Jack was sick the wives of other salesmen in the hotel in which I lived, cursed me because I would not cheat—I would not accompany them. And the social leader of Bingville, (that is not the name of the town) whose husband was a butcher, publicly insulted me."

"No, the rich girls are not snobs. When I was on my 'uppers' in San Francisco, my old school friends took me into their homes. They made me feel that I was one of them. They were not the least put out when we drove up to their homes in a 'fliver'."

"But, because my husband is only a salesman, the newly established rich leaders do not appreciate that someday I will come into the heritage of a fortune. They care only for the spenders. Indeed, they are the snobs, not the daughters of the rich."

So this daughter of a highly respected judge in an eastern city prattled on about the ways of the world. How true it was, too. Those who live as their conscience dictates are beset by belittling, sinning snobs.

Out of it all, however, comes a sweet charity; a beautiful spirit that makes for a better world. And our men and women of today might well learn that it is not with what degree of importance they comport themselves, but the service they render.

This poor little rich girl has made one man immensely happy. She brightens the lives of others to a larger measure than were she to continue a life of luxury with its monogrammed cigarettes.

While Glendale did not make a million in building permits during the month of April, there is no reason to doubt that this year will see an average of $1,000,000 per month in construction.

Three hotel projects totalling nearly $1,500,000, not to forget business structures and factory buildings and thousands of homes will pile high the total for 1923.

A visitor in Glendale recently said, "You have but begun to grow."

Indeed, Glendale is just hitting its stride. Development on every side is pushing this miracle city ahead. Overnight it has become the center for a vastly populated area. It is the scene of the most feverish activity the world has ever known.

You can have your Long Beach with its oil wells—which fifty years from now will be dry. You can have your Pasadena with its palatial estates of non-resident millionaires. You can have your Los Angeles with its overcrowded streets and cosmopolitan population.

But we will take our Glendale, with its homes, and its American ideals, and its clubs and everything that is good. Or we would rather have a hut in the Greer Verdugo hills, or a bungalow out Burbank way than an apartment on Bunker Hill.

It is to live, away from the jaunt of the carlines; out in the open residential lanes, of ideal suburban atmosphere, rather than be cooped into cottages at the beach or cornered on the sixth floor of a hotel.

We are all for Glendale.

Longest day of the year at Spitzbergen lasts three and one-half months.

Real 'No Man's Land' Is Found in Nevada

TONOPAH, Nev., May 4.—"No Man's Land" has been found in Southwestern Nevada.

Twenty-five hundred square miles of territory of area greater than the entire state of Delaware, with the District of Columbia thrown in to plug up the corners, contains not a road, a trail or a track. No person is known to have crossed this barren waste of lava beds and only a few prospectors and geologists have skirted its edges.

One of these few is Frank W. Rapp, who recently returned from a ten weeks' geological expedition into Forty Mile canyon, just north of the desolate area in Nye county.

"The country is without vegetation of any sort and completely devoid of water," Rapp said. "Not even a sagebrush jackrabbit can live there."

One hundred miles from Tonopah and thirty miles from Beaty, the nearest town, the closest approach is by way of Indian Springs over seventy-five miles of rough roads that end in nowhere. The unexplored region is enclosed by the Shoshone range on the west and south, and the Belled range on the east. Timber mountains on the west and south, and the Belled range and Pahute mesa to the north.

It is known as the wildest spot in Nevada.

Alpine plants found in the Arctic have stems and leaves much smaller than those growing in warmer climates, while their roots and flowers are of the same size.

Average Siberia ermine wrap is composed of 300 skins.
